BRITISH NAVAL PROTECTION FORREFUGEE SHIPS.

The Basque Government having enquired in London whether British naval protection would be given to ships by which it hopes to arrange for the evacuating of women, children and old people from Bilbao - the British Government ascertained that there would be complete impartiality, as between parties and supporters and opponents, of the existing regime, in the choice of the refugees for evacuation.

In these circumstances (in conformity with the policy hitherto followed) by lending all possible assistance to humanitarian work to both sides in the Civil War, His Majesty's Government have instructed British warships to give protection, outside territorial waters, to any vessel carrying non-combatant refugees from Bilbao.

The British Government confidently assume that General Franco, for his part, would not wish to impede this humanitarian endeavour, and they anticipate no difficulty regarding the departure of refugee ships.

Actually, so far, there has been no attempt by the Insurgents' naval forces to interfere with shipping of any kind leaving Bilbao.

It is understood that the British Consul in Bilbao will be in a position to satisfy himself of the complete disregard of political consideration, in the selection of refugees.

The Decision of the British Government follows close on the Home Secretary's intimation of his willingness to facilitate the proposal of the Spanish Relief Organisation to bring a number of Basque children to Britain and this assurance was repeated in the House of Commons,

KING AND QUEEN TO WITNESS F.A.CUP FINAL.

The King and Queen left Buckingham Palace, yesterday, by car for the Royal Lodge, Windsor, where they will spend the week-end. To-day Their Majesties will motor direct from the Royal Lodge to Wembley to witness the Football Association Cup Final.

Their Majesties are expected to return to Buckingham Palace on Monday.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT INDISPOSED.

The Duke of Connaught shows a marked improvement, states a bulletin issued yesterday at Bournemouth, where the Duke is confined to his room with leg trouble.

DUKE OF KENT OPENS AERIAL HOUSE.

Yesterday, the Duke of Kent opened Aerial House in the Strand where in future the Civil Aviation Department of the Air Ministry will be housed.

In the course of a short speech His Royal Highness expressed the hope that the International Commission of Air Navigation would encourage the spirit of mutual co-operation which would ensure humanity full enjoyment of the benefit which the conquest of the air could bestow.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER AND THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

"Australia has come for a frank and friendly discussion at the Imperial Conference", said the Australian Premier, Mr. Lyons, on his arrival in England. He said that they should have a review of the Ottawa Agreement, but not a revision and, he opined, that modifications should be by bi-lateral discussion rather than by a full conference.

"Australia", he continued, "will attend the Conference in a spirit of goodwill and co-operation, realising that the unity of the British Empire is the greatest power for good in a world torn by international dissensions."

"Australia is fully prepared", said Mr. Lyons, "to participate in discussions of the Empire Defence; she will be endeavouring to discharge an obligation to participate in the Empire naval defence and provide her own local defence, so as not to increase the heavy defence burdens on the people of the United Kingdom."

Other problems for discussion at the conference will be - the problem of helping British shipping in the Pacific so as to compete with American shipping; also the difficulties of a through air service from England to New Zealand.

ULSTER: The House of Commons passed the Premier's resolution renewing "Steadfast Devotion to the Crown and the Person of the King"

A similar resolution was passed by the Irish Free State Senate.

The Church of Ireland Synod, held in Dublin, also expressed the loyalty of the south and the members sang "God Save the King."

R. A. F. BOMBERS CRASH.

It is reported from Norwich that two R.A.F. bombers collided in mid-air and resulted in all five occupants being killed.

Apparently the tail of the leading machine was touched by the other plane's propeller.

One bomber dropped in flames while the other crashed, uncontrolled, into the marshes of the River Wisney.

SHIPBUILDING OF CLYDE.

Orders for shipbuilding off Clydeside during April reached £18,500,000, which is the highest figure since the Great War, and represents 140 vessels but does not include warships under construction.

UNDER LOCARNO PACT NOW NULLIFIED.

The Belgian Foreign Minister, M. Spaak in addressing the Chamber on International Status, explained that Belgian obligations under the Locarno Pact is now nullified by Germany's re-armament.

BOMBING OF GUERNICABritish Public Horrified.

The dismay and horror which the cruelties of the Spanish Civil War have aroused among the British public have been heightened by the reported bombing of Guernica last Monday which, whatever the facts may prove as to its special intensity and destructiveness of lives and property, is only a sample, it is recognised, of the similar deplorable events in which aircraft of both sides have used, throughout the course of the Civil War, against open towns, involving the slaughter and terrorisation of non-combatant civilians.

Several questions on the Guernica bombing will be addressed to the Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons to-day. One member asks the Government to initiate proposals for an impartial enquiry into the circumstances.

Mr. Eden assured the House of Commons on Friday that the Government were actively considering whether any action could be taken, in co-operation with other governments, to prevent recurrence of these events.

LABOUR DAY CELEBRATIONS.

The world-wide celebration of May Day, it is generally agreed, has been the quietest for many years.

In London a four mile procession was marked by the addition of a section of striking busmen, but in France celebrations brought all work to a standstill.

May Day is a new idea for New York but there was a mass procession of 150,000 workers.

In Moscow there was a mammoth review. A two hour military parade indicated the progress of the army's mechanisation, while 800 planes evolutioned overhead.

LONDON HOSPITALS' FLAG DAY.

This week 108 London hospitals are making a joint appeal for funds with the experiment of a single flag day, which will be held on Thursday, in place of 240 street collections which were made three years ago and reduced to 77 separate flag days last year.

The Queen has expressed her sympathy with the effort in which 50,000 voluntary workers will be engaged and which, it is hoped, will bring in contributions totalling no less than the sums realised in separate appeals.

MINISTRY OF LABOUR TO HOLD COURT OF ENQUIRY

The Ministry of Labour has set up a Court of Enquiry under the 1919 Industrial Court Act "to enquire into and report upon the question of the hours of work, working conditions, and the circumstances of the employment of drivers and conductors in the London Central Omnibus Service and the matters in issue between the London Passenger Transport Board and the Transport and General Workers' Union"

The Court will meet to-day when evidence will be given by the two sides.

CORONATION PROGRAMME SALES.

The Official Souvenir Coronation Programme, which came on sale only last Tuesday, has already broken every record for the sale of any similar publication.

EVACUATION OF SPANISH REFUGEES

The Sunday Times correspondent in Bilbao reports that the evacuation of women, children and the aged is commencing. Nine British ships with captains of food ships which ran the blockade, are agreeing to carry 5,000 children to St. Jean de Luz.

The British Navy will protect the refugees on the high-seas while British destroyers and a French despatch boat are taking refugees to Bayonne.

THEIR MAJESTIES TO VISITNORTHERN IRELAND.

His Majesty the King has signified his approval of a programme for Their Majesties' State Visit to Northern Ireland on the 28th of July submitted to him by the Ulster Governor, now in London with the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, Viscount Craigavon.

Their Majesties will visit Government House, the Houses of Parliament to receive public addresses, inspect ex-service men, and mingle with 16,000 Ulster boys and girls who, by the King's special desire, will parade.

The Royal visit has already created a considerable increase in traffic bookings to Northern Ireland, and both Belfast and London bureaux of the Ulster Tourist Association are busy with welcome plans for a record number of overseas visitors.

AMERICAN STRIKE WAVE.

The correspondent of the New York Sunday Times reports a new American strike wave.

Over 9,000 electrical workers are idle in Philadelphia while a deadlock exists in Detroit on the discussions between Packard Motors and the United Automobile Workers' Union regarding wage increases for 15,500 employees.

A sit-down strike in the Hall Aluminum Aircraft Corporation stopped the army plants construction.

Hollywood painters, scenic artists and make-up men have struck suspending the production of fifty films. The men's union seek recognition and it is feared the technicians may join the strikers.

The International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, with a 245,000 membership, announces its intention to demand a thirty hour week.

HERR HITLER AND NO WAGE INCREASE.

Herr Hitler, in addressing an open air meeting in Berlin on May Day, announced a wage increase to be impossible, explaining that if wages advanced, higher prices would follow and result in a currency depreciation.

Churches Warned.

The Fuhrer warned the churches that they would be called to order if they opposed the State and told the critics that there could only be one authority and that they would walk over any opposition.

Herr Hitler described the Germans as a sole, industrious people living in a space too limited to supply their needs.

CIVIL LIST.

The report of the Select Committee on the Civil List was issued last evening and the House of Commons agreed to consider it at once on its re-assembly after Whitsun on May 24th. The Committee states that the total amount of the Civil List and its distribution was carefully considered last year and after further enquiry they see no reasons for recommending any alterations.

They are satisfied that the provision then made was adequate but not more than adequate for the proper maintenance of the dignity of the Crown. The Civil List of King Edward, adding thereto provisions made against the contingency of his marriage, amounted to £410,000.

His Majesty has expressed his desire that a suitable provision be made for Princess Elizabeth, or for a future Duke of Cornwall.

Under these circumstances the Committee recommends that an annuity of £10,000, in addition to his existing annuity of £25,000 as the younger son of King George Fifth, should be paid out of the Consolidated Fund to the Duke of Gloucester for life.

In the case of Princess Elizabeth who is heir presumptive but not entitled to the revenue of the Duchy of Cornwall, the Committee recommend that a provision be made for an annuity of £6,000 to be paid out of the Consolidated Fund and to be increased to £15,000 on her attaining the age of twenty-one should there then be no Duke of Cornwall.

BOMBING OF GUERNICA

FOREIGN SECRETARY QUESTIONED.

Questioned in the House of Commons on the bombing of Guernica the Foreign Secretary replied: "A telegram was sent on Friday last to His Majesty's Ambassador and to the British Consul at Bilbao requesting them to forward as soon as possible any information which might assist in establishing the facts regarding the destruction of Guernica. Replies are still being received and my information is not yet complete. I am, therefore, not in a position to make a considered statement on this subject. His Majesty's Government however expressed their views on the general question of the bombardment of the civilian population of which the destruction of Guernica furnished a deplorable example

"As I intimated to the House on Friday His Majesty's Government are considering what steps can be taken, in co-operating with other powers, to prevent a recurrence of such happenings."

The decision of the Government already announced to afford British Naval protection on the high seas to refugee ships from Bilbao was mentioned in the House of Commons answer by the Foreign Secretary who explained the scheme of evacuation of women, children and old people would apply to persons of all political creeds and the British Consul would be in close touch with arrangements to ensure impartiality.

Mr. Eden also informed the House that a reply had been received from the Insurgent Authorities recognising the humanitarian and impartial motives of the British Government but rejecting the proposal for a number of reasons and making alternative proposals of their own for ensuring the safety of the civilian population. He added, "I would make it clear that Your Majesty's Government intend nevertheless to give the assistance to which I have referred."

AQUITANIA'S BEST STEAMING RECORD

The Cunard White Star liner "Aquitania" which reached Southampton yesterday afternoon from New York completed the best steaming performance in her twenty-three years career. She crossed the Atlantic between Ambrose Channel Light vessels and Cherbourg breakwater, 3,199 nautical miles, in 5 days 8 hours 37 minutes which is an average speed of 24.87 knots. Her previous average was 24.82 knots accomplished last year after she had been fitted with four new propellers.

THE DUKE OF WINDSOR.

The Duke of Windsor left St. Wolfgang in Austria on Sunday and arrived yesterday at Chateau de Gande near Tours where Mrs. Simpson is staying as the guest of the American owner.

The press reports that a statement will be issued from the Chateau de Gande in the course of the next few days concerning the plans for the wedding of the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson.

THE LONDON BUS DISPUTE.

The Court of Enquiry into the London bus dispute took further evidence last evening in support of the case presented on Monday for the Union by Mr. E. Bevin.

To-day the London Passenger Transport Board representatives will state their case.

The enquiry is bound to take several days and in view of a strong desire which is known to exist among cabs-men as well as on part of the Board to restore the service in Central London in advance of Coronation

Day for the convenience of the public and of visitors. The newspapers express optimism regarding the prospects of an interim understanding which would bring an end to the strike. The evening papers also print observers' tributes to the good temper and cheerfulness with which the travelling public and workers on tramways and underground railways are meeting the hardships of overcrowding and delay.

PRICES STILL LOWER THAN IN 1929

Replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday the Chancellor of the Exchequer said that with increasing prosperity and improved employment there was a tendency for prices to rise above very low level to which they fell during the slump but there had been no abnormal development at home and the cost of living was still decidedly lower than before the depression had started in 1929.

NON-INTERVENTION IN SPAIN.

The Chairman's Sub-Committee of the International Non-Intervention Committee at a meeting yesterday had under consideration a suggestion placed before them on behalf of the United Kingdom that appeal should be addressed to the parties in Spain regard to the bombing of open towns.

In the course of a general exchange of views all representatives stated their governments shared the hope of the United Kingdom Government that means might be found to humanise the conduct of the present conflict in Spain.

In this connexion opinion was expressed that an appeal might be made to the two parties in Spain on a wider basis by which they would be asked to undertake that the conflict be conducted with utmost regard possible to humanitarian considerations with a view to reducing the dangers and sufferings to which the civil populations are exposed in time of war.

In 1935 an expert commission of the League of Nations drew up the dietary schedule on page two as a general guide for the pregnant and nursing woman. The report lays down the calorie requirements, the minimum requirement of proteins, and makes a few general remarks about mineral salts and vitamins. The commission divided the diet into two parts.

- A - Protective Foods
- B - Supplementary energy-yielding Foods.

On Tuesday the 11th of May the "A" part of this schedule will be demonstrated in the Town Hall and readers who are interested may study the table beforehand.

NOTES No. 3. PREPARED BY THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT - STANLEY.WART DISEASE OF POTATOES.

During the early part of last month a case of Wart Disease in potatoes in a garden in Stanley was investigated by the Agricultural Advisor. This well known disease (sometimes called "Black Scab") was first described in Czecho-Slovakia in 1896, but there is reason to believe that it was known to growers in Lancashire and Cheshire for some decades previously. Its origin has not been satisfactorily established. In Great Britain it is almost widespread in the northern and midland counties in Wales, and in the midland and southern counties of Scotland. There are isolated outbreaks in Ireland particularly in the north. No country in north western and central Europe is free from the disease, and outbreaks have occurred in Newfoundland, the United States, and South Africa.

Wart disease is 'scheduled' in all parts of the British Isles, and every outbreak must be notified to the proper Agricultural Authorities.

This disease causes characteristic cauliflower-like excrescences on the tubers, which may be small and nodular, (in which case it will be seen that they arise from an eye) or may cover a large part of the surface.

These are first whitish in colour, but later they turn black and decay. The disease continues to develop in the pits. Although a large part of the crop may be rendered useless, the vigour of the plant does not suffer, but warts sometimes develop on the stems and lowest leaves. The disease is most severe in wet years and in moist situations.

The spores which find their way into the ground when the warts decay are extremely resistant and are known to remain alive and dormant in the soil for at least twelve years; indeed there is still no record of the disease having died out of heavily contaminated soil. Tomatoes have proved susceptible to the disease.

Control-:

The disease does not spread through the air, but is carried from place to place in infected tubers or contaminated soil. Any agency by which soil is transported may convey the disease among which may be mentioned water, implements, the feet of animals and men. Warded tubers are the most dangerous agents of dispersal, but tubers even of immune varieties, and other plants such as cabbages, may carry infection in the soil adhering to them - sweepings from potato stores and domestic refuse are further likely sources of disease.

Manure made by animals fed on raw diseased tubers is also infective. Every care should be taken to prevent clean land from becoming contaminated.

The best way of dealing with an outbreak, is to lay the land down to permanent pasture for a long term of years. No practical method of sterilising infected soil has yet been discovered.

The discovery of immune varieties has provided a perfect means of control, and the disease will lose most of its significance when it becomes universally distributed, although that time is not yet. Efforts to produce new immune sorts have given a great impetus to potato breeding, and the number of such varieties now available in England exceeds two hundred.

The situation elsewhere is not so satisfactory, but it is fortunate that some of the most important American varieties such as Green Mountain and Irish Cobbler do not succumb to the disease. At the same time no immune varieties have yet been produced which are quite the equal of Epicure, Up-to-date and King Edward.

The best known of those available are Di-Vernon (early), Great Scot (mid-season), and Kerr's Fink, Majestic and Arran Banner (late).

Apparently the disease was fairly prevalent in the Falkland Islands some fifteen years ago, and it would be interesting therefore, to know to what extent it exists today.

With this end in view it would be appreciated if those growers who suspect the disease in their properties would notify the Agricultural Department, Stanley. It would be of interest to hear from those who have had trouble in the past, with brief notes of their experiences regarding control methods used and including names and varieties of potatoes found to be immune.

BRITAIN'S AIR POWER.

The formation of five new squadrons as announced in the latest Air Ministry orders will within the next few days increase the strength of the Metropolitan Air Force - Home Defence Coastal Command and Army Co-operation Units - to 113 squadrons or only ten below the number scheduled for completion under the Royal Air Force expansion programme. Once 123 squadrons are in being individual squadron air-craft armament will be increased to augment the aggregate first line strength of the Metropolitan Force to 1,750 aeroplanes. The present first line strength is approximately 1,400. Four of the five new units will be armed with bombing aeroplanes, three with medium bombers and one with "heavies". The fifth is the seventh of the general reconnaissance squadrons of units created during the past two years.

MINISTER OF EDUCATION ADDRESSESOVERSEAS TEACHERS.

The Minister of Education addressing foreign and overseas teachers of the hope of the men back from war in 1918 that through the League of Nations public opinion would be mobilised and focussed to prevent any repetition of wars. He thought preservation of peace depended not so much upon the provision of machinery as upon reaching the hearts and minds of men and women and creating the will to peace. They must look back and look forward remembering the dreams of early post war years and the spirit that inspired them and pledging themselves to maintain that spirit to work so that these dreams might come true.

handful of men on both sides with whom peace or war in Harworth Colliery dispute rested to do a thing which would rejoice in the hearts of all - to rend and to dissipate the dark cloud that the threatened strike held over the country and to show the world that British democracy knew how to practice acts of peace in a world of strife.

The Prime Minister's appeal made a great impression in the House and produced a dramatic effect. After a statement by the Mines' Minister Mr. Tom Williams, Labour Member for Don Valley and himself an ex-miner rose and said he had prepared a speech but after Mr. Baldwin's appeal he saw no purpose in continuing the debate. The debate was then adjourned and the House rose at 6 o'clock.

MR. BALDWIN'S DRAMATIC SPEECH.

In what he evidently regarded and press has signalized as his last big speech in the House of Commons the Prime Minister intervening early in the debate on the threatened national coal strike made an eloquent appeal for a peaceful settlement. Mr. Baldwin assured the House that the Government were not indifferent to what was happening and he himself had been in daily touch with the Mines' Minister for a long time. The present dispute called for delicate and sympathetic handling but he was not without hope that reason would prevail because there was a feeling throughout the country that the issue was so reduced that it ought not to be allowed to lead to a strike.

The whole world had its eyes on London where it was represented for rejoicing associated with the age-old ceremony of a Coronation so near at hand. In the Abbey next week the young King and his Queen, called suddenly and unexpectedly to the most tremendous position on earth would kneel to dedicate themselves to the service of the people which would end only in death. He appealed to

THE SINKING OF THE "ESPAÑA"

Considered Possible Sunk by Mine.

Information reaching London regarding the sinking last Friday of the cruiser "España" belonging to the Spanish Insurgent forces does not support the earlier suggestion that she was sunk by a bomb dropped from a Spanish government aeroplane. Reports suggest that the cruiser had been heaved-to for an hour before the air-raid. It is also considered possible that the cruiser was sunk by a mine.

The British merchant ship "Knitsley" which was in the neighbourhood reports that three aeroplanes appeared flying high above the clouds in the vicinity of the "España" but that there was no sign of any bombs being dropped.

setting could be imagined than this ancient Hall which has at once been the scene and the silent witness of so many stormy events in the history of the parliament of this country. Here have grown up principles which form the bulwark

NON INTERVENTION COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Means to mitigate the cruelties inflicted on non-combatants of both sides in the course of the Spanish Civil War were again under discussion at a meeting yesterday of the Chairman's Sub-Committee of the International Non-Intervention Committee. It is emphasised in circles in close touch with the committee's work that the reappearance in the press of unauthorised accounts of its proceedings and those of its sub-committee's is causing deep concern. In the early days of its existence the committee took notice of the

THE LONDON BUS STRIKE.

No Settlement yet.

Efforts to settle the London Bus Strike are continuing. The central bus committee of the Transport Workers' Union met early on Saturday morning and later received invitations to visit the Transport Ministry where they were in consultation with the Minister, Mr. Ernest Brown late in the afternoon. A meeting of the Union's delegates was arranged for Saturday night which was generally regarded as an indication that the basis for discussion of terms of a settlement would be available.

The Provincial Bus Strike has taken a more favourable turn and in Kent after 23 days stoppage full services of buses were running on Saturday morning.

CORONATION PROCESSION.

Final Rehearsal.

(Saturday 8th May.) Their Majesties the King and Queen with Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret are spending the week-end at the Royal Lodge, Windsor. They are expected to return to Buckingham Palace tomorrow evening.

It is expected exceptionally large crowds will throng the Coronation route of London from early hours to-morrow morning until late at night. Special trains are running to London in the early morning to bring sight-seers to the 6 o'clock morning Coronation procession rehearsal and throughout the day vast numbers will arrive to see the decorations on the royal route. To-day being half-holiday the streets have been exceptionally busy. Cars and motor coaches, laden with sight-seers, are making tours of the route and there were immense numbers of pedestrians everywhere but particularly in the neighbourhood of Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey.

FINAL CORONATION REHEARSAL MARREDBY RAIN.

The London influx of sight-seers congested the Metropolis over the week-end and following the remarkable street scenes on Saturday when police cordons along the pavements became necessary when rain fell to dull the pageantry of the final Coronation rehearsal.

Spectators gathered from early Saturday evening and filled all stands along the route at a nominal charge of threepence which will be devoted to charity.

Yesterday resulted in even greater congestion with cars moving at snail pace and protracted halts. It is forecast that Sunday's disappointing weather will improve but considerable damage is done to decorations in many areas particularly on the south-west coast where storms occurred.

COLLISION IN ENGLISH CHANNEL.All Lives Saved.

The steamer "Willesden" was badly holed in a collision on Saturday with an Italian steamer "Gian Franco" of 8,000 tons in a thick fog in the English Channel and was reported by her owners to be abandoned and sinking. The Dungeness and Dover lifeboats were launched but the "Willesden's" crew who had taken to their boats were picked up by the British steamer "Thistle Glen" which stood by. After an unsuccessful attempt to beach the "Willesden" two tugs arrived from Dover and the disabled vessel was taken in tow. The "Gian Franco" proceeded on her journey to Bremen.

ENQUIRIES INTO "HINDENBURG" DISASTER

Two separate enquiries into the "Hindenburg" disaster opened yesterday by American authorities - one by the Navy Department on whose ground the vessel was wrecked and one by the Department of Commerce since commercial flying is within their province.

Both enquiries will begin on Monday.

Further deaths yesterday were the wireless operator Speck and another German passenger bringing the death toll to 12 passengers, 20 crew and one groundman, but only sixteen of the dead are identified as all the records are destroyed.

Berlin confirms that the airship was insured for 6,000,000 Reich Marks with passengers against death 2,400,000 reich marks and similar amounts for injuries.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE THE SIXTH OF GREAT BRITAIN, IRELAND AND BRITISH DOMINIONS BEYOND THE SEAS KING, DEFENDER OF THE FAITH

Westminster Abbey
 May 12th 1937
 Coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth

WAS CROWNED IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY and later with his crowned Queen acclaimed for miles through the streets of his capital by multitudes drawn from every class and creed.

THE CORONATION.

The crowds, like the distinguished congregation in the Abbey, included representatives of every part of the vast territories of the British Commonwealth of Nations which thus proclaimed their union in allegiance to the Crown as a symbol of their free and enduring association. The long and complex programme for the Coronation Ceremony and procession was carried through with punctuality and precision fitting to the military pomp which played so large and colourful a part in the pageantry of the day. A solemn ceremonial rich in associations of ten centuries combined with jubilant welcome of millions to assert continuity and continuance of ties of loyalty, trust and service which bind together the British Monarchy and the British peoples. A replica in so many ways of his father's and his grandfather's Coronations. The crowning of King George the Sixth was made unique by one difference. Not only a few thousands of august and brilliant company in the Abbey but millions who awaited him in the streets, tens of millions in their homes or assembled in churches and halls in every town and village of Great Britain and hundreds of millions of his subjects overseas participated in the ceremony by means of broadcast. They heard anthems and prayers, they heard "recognition" of the King with shouts echoing in the ancient vaulted arches and fanfares of trumpets, and they heard him take the oath in a new form modified to conform with constitutional changes of the statute of Westminster. They listened to descriptions of the anointing the investiture with bejewelled and glittering regalia, the putting on of Saint Edward's crown and heard the mighty shouts of "God Save the King". They heard how His Majesty was enthroned on the throne of his ancestors and heard the homage of peers spiritual, princes of royal blood and peers temporal. And through the eyes of commentators they, in some manner, saw the lustre and glitter, the colour and movement and lights, the magnificence of robes and uniforms, and the splendour of the coronets and turbans and of the plate and insignia, and the gleam of medals and orders.

Messages reaching London

from every part of the globe show that not only British communities but large numbers in all countries followed the Coronation broadcast with interest and enthusiasm.

The weather was overcast but remained dry until nearly the end of the procession from the Abbey to Buckingham Palace. Just before the State coach reached the Palace there was a very heavy downpour for a few minutes. The scene lost a little of its colour from the absence of sunshine but crowds were undaunted despite the hours of waiting. The fervour of the reception given to Their Majesties along the whole route made manifest with sympathy and affection when the people see the King and Queen enter upon the responsibilities of their reign.

As soon as the end of the procession entered the Palace, crowds surged across the roadway to the railings. It was not long before the King and Queen came on to the balcony and were greeted with tumultuous cheers. They were joined by the little Princesses wearing golden coronets. When after a few minutes Queen Mary came out on the balcony as well, there was a great outburst of cheering. Long after Their Majesties had withdrawn the crowd outside the Palace continued to grow and further showers of rain failed to diminish the enthusiasts. For hours on end cheering continued interrupted at intervals by the singing of "God Save the King" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

The smooth working of arrangements is remarkable tribute to the police organisation. An elaborate system of control in which points were linked by telephone and wireless had been devised.

HIS MAJESTY'S SPEECH.

The King spoke to the Prime Ministers of the Dominions and representatives of India and the Colonial Empire in acknowledging loyal addresses presented to him at Buckingham Palace. His Majesty, who was accompanied by the Queen, said:

"Only two years ago at a gathering like this my dear father received his Prime Ministers and others representing the Overseas Empire and India. That was his Silver Jubilee—a time when peoples of our Empire united to acknowledge with boundless generosity achievements of his great reign. In moving words my father spoke of welcoming you home. He has since gone from us and it has pleased God to call me to be the head of this great family. To-day I stand on the threshold of a new life. Heavy are the responsibilities that have so suddenly and unexpectedly come upon me but it gives me courage to know that I can count on your unfailing help and affection. For my part I shall do my utmost to carry on my father's work for the welfare of our great Empire. The Queen and I are not strangers to life overseas. We cherish a memory of months we spent in visiting the Dominions on the other side of the world. We shall indeed be happy if in years to come we may have the good fortune to extend this personal knowledge. To-day the world is harassed by perplexity and fear. In this Family of Nations, linked by ties alike flexible and firm, we have inherited from our fathers a great tradition of liberty and service. I am confident that whatever life may bring we shall continue to work together to preserve this noble heritage so that we may hand it on unimpaired to those that come after"

WORLD'S REACTION TO CORONATION.

The Daily Telegraph, summarising world reactions to the Coronation ceremony, says the nations of the earth are filled with wonder and admiration at the splendid order of the procession, ceremony, and the multitudinous demonstrations of affectionate loyalty by the British crowds. The United States broadcasts occupied six hours while radio photographs of the crowning were published within 1½ hours of the happening and the press gave more space than to any event of modern times.

The new King truly inherits the spirit of his father, it is said, and the nation is impressed by his devotion to his task ahead and the loyalty and unity of the British people.

France points out that the greatest lesson to be learned is the necessity of internal union which is now authoritatively voiced by Britain.

Germany hopes that the new King will succeed with the Empire in dispelling recent clouds and pays many friendly tributes, stressing that the crown binds the Empire.

Holland sees in the British Empire's support of the Coronation a guarantee of freedom with "God Save the King" having a meaning beyond the Empire's frontiers.

Austria visualises the fulfilment of England's great mission of peace while Czecho-Slovakia says the eyes of the world's democrats are fixed on Britain in faith and trust since King George rules over democracy which a republic could not better.

Jugoslavia expresses hope that Britain will remain the first power in the world because of its principles of law and order and justice between man and man.

BRITISH DESTROYER MINED.

It is reported from Valencia that the British destroyer H.M.S. "Hunter" was mined while on non-intervention patrol five miles from the shore resulting in severe damage to her bows and eight killed and twenty-four injured. Spanish vessels hurried to the rescue and towed H.M.S. "Hunter" into Almeria harbour where ambulances awaited to convey the injured to hospital.

An admiralty message from London adds no further details.

TWO HUNDRED TONS OF LITTER AFTER CORONATION.

The aftermath of the Coronation engaged the councils concerned with 200 tons of litter collected over the three mile processional route and 360 cleaners were engaged.

STATUE OF KING GEORGE II WRECKED IN DUBLIN.

A land mine completely wrecked the equestrian statue of King George II on St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, yesterday morning. It is understood that this is a reprisal by members of the I.R.A. for the ban on the anti-Coronation demonstration which was to be held on Tuesday.

SPANISH CIVIL WAR.Seige of Toledo.

The Madrid Government forces are intensifying the seige of Toledo and all the roads to the city are under artillery fire with the object of preventing re-inforcements. Bilbao reports the bringing down of three German planes in the Insurgent service and information from the rescued pilots will be the basis of a protest on the grounds of non-intervention infringements. A Salamanca message claims that the Insurgents are continuing the Biscayan advance and have occupied the Bizcargi Heights west of Guernica.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

At the opening of the Imperial Conference yesterday a message of greeting and loyalty was sent to His Majesty the King who, in reply, said it was fitting that deliberations of the conference followed so closely on the Coronation. He would follow them with the greatest interest in confident hope that they would advance the happiness and prosperity of the Empire.

In the inaugural address Mr. Stanley Baldwin said that they were meeting at a time when the international situation was difficult and ever threatening and therefore the conference had responsibility to see its deliberations were not only of service to the nations of the British Commonwealth but helped also, in some measure, towards a solution of the problems perplexing the rest of the world.

Mr. Mackenzie King spoke of Canada's efforts to open channels of trade and described the reduction of tariffs brought about by recent agreement with the United Kingdom and the United States. Canada helped to continue on these lines with countries both within and without the Commonwealth and so contribute to a revival of trade and removal of causes of international conflict.

Never had the Empire been more united declared Mr. Lyons who followed. The Dominions must face the obligations of providing for their own national defence and playing their part in ensuring world peace. The Australian Government were of opinion that the examination of the bases of the British Commonwealth's foreign policy and of the position of the League of Nations should be one of the major considerations of the conference with a view to the formulation of a consistent and unified Empire policy.

INFORMAL INTERVIEWS BY FOREIGN SECRETARY.

The presence in London for the Coronation of prime ministers and foreign ministers of many countries has afforded an opportunity of which the Foreign Secretary has taken advantage to renew contacts established at Geneva or on his visits to European capitals. Mr. Eden has had a number of valuable conversations of quite a general character and it is probable that the visiting statesmen among themselves have taken a chance to meet and exchange ideas in a way which may be none the less fruitful for being quite informal.

In continuation of this series of interviews Mr. Eden yesterday afternoon received the Turkish Prime Minister (General Ismet Inönu) at the Foreign Office.

COLONIAL TROOPS RECEIVE MEDALS.

The Dominion and Colonial Troops in London for the Coronation marched to Buckingham Palace yesterday for presentation of Coronation medals. With the King were the Queen, Queen Mary, the little Princesses, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and the Duke of Kent. A large crowd had collected along the route and outside the Palace and the troops were applauded and cheered.

Civil and military representatives of the Colonial Empire for the Coronation joined in laying wreaths on the Cenotaph yesterday. Afterwards the Colonial Troops marched from Whitehall to the Colonial Office where the

Colonial Secretary addressed them. He spoke of the loyalty of their service to His Majesty the King, and said it was fitting that they should have received earlier in the day Coronation medals handed to them by the King himself. They would carry back with them a vivid sense of comprehensiveness and variety of the British Empire.

The organisations represented in the deputation were the Association of British Chambers of Commerce.

POLITICAL DISCONTENT IN U.S.A.

President Roosevelt returned to the White House on Friday from a holiday and faces a situation of unrest, disillusionment and discontent bordering on revolt. Says the Daily Telegraph Correspondent, with irritation evident not only in Congress but also among his own followers.

The Supreme Court Reform Plan is apparently at the bottom of the ill-feeling and it is agreed that Congress cannot adjourn until this matter is settled. Additionally both Congress and the country are alarmed by the renewed weaknesses in security and commodity prices and the line of the presidential policy is eagerly awaited.

While there is growing opposition to extended relief payments Congress members are becoming restive under the accusations of the constitution that they are becoming "rubber stamps".

New Yorkers regard, and as the Roosevelt press admits, all is far from well in the democratic party and the President's persistent indifference to the political advice is causing increasing resentment among his followers.

PROVINCIAL VISITORS TO LONDON.Holiday Spirit Running High.

Stimulated by the Coronation the holiday spirit is running high this Whitsuntide. The railway companies' holiday arrangements this year are having to allow for special traffic of visitors from the provinces who were unable to see the Coronation celebrations on Wednesday and are anxious to view the street decorations and floodlighting of public buildings in the capital. For the next three nights, as on the last two, the principal streets in the west-end of London, including most of the route of Wednesday's procession, are closed to vehicular traffic after nine o'clock in the evening to allow the crowds to circulate freely and safely on foot where there is most to be seen.

The diversion of wheeled traffic imposes a serious strain on the ingenuity of the police and temper of the drivers but it is appreciated by the sightseers and gives to the west-end the unusual appearance of a carnival.

CORONATION REVIEW AT SPITHEAD.

Their Majesties the King and Queen, who received a great welcome from the crowd of several thousands at Windsor on Sunday when they attended the morning service in St. George's Chapel, will face another strenuous programme of public engagements when they return to Buckingham Palace to-day.

To-morrow they will drive in State to the Guildhall to be the guests of the Lord Mayor and the Corporation at a luncheon. Later Their Majesties will leave for Portsmouth where, after a civic reception, they will embark on the Royal Yacht "Victoria and Albert". On Thursday the King reviews his fleet.

Visitors in large numbers have already arrived in Portsmouth and at the Isle of Wight and the shores and heights were crowded yesterday with sightseers viewing the assembled warships and watching the late-comers among the visiting foreign ships taking position in line. The King will also spend most of Friday with the Fleet and then Their Majesties will return to London by train.

WHITSUN BANK HOLIDAY.

Crowds Visit London to see Crowds.

Remarkable scenes were witnessed in London yesterday as a result of the coincidence of the Whitsun Bank Holiday with the first day of real summer weather, and of the attraction exerted by the decorated streets and the flood-lighting of public buildings. In addition to the many week-end visitors yesterday, as on Sunday, dozens of day excursion trains arrived at London termini and the roads also brought tens of thousands of sightseers from the country. The crowds, parading the Coronation route and gathering in the evening in the west-end to see the illuminations, were swollen by many thousands more who, adverted by newspapers and wireless of Monday's scenes, had come "to see the crowds". Last night as lighting-up time approached solid masses of people packed Picadilly Circus and Trafalgar Square, while masses oozed like viscous fluid along Oxford Street, up Bond Street and down Regent Street and Haymarket.

Pedestrian traffic, with the broad streets of London's west-end to itself, actually succeeded in producing jams as bad as the worst of those caused by vehicular traffic.

The flood-lighting in St. James's Park also drew vast throng while earlier in the day many thousands passed through Westminster Abbey to view the scene of the Coronation.

TRIBUTE TO LORD SNOWDEN.

On Monday and yesterday the newspapers paid tribute to Lord Snowden and prominence was given to the words of his successor, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, who on hearing of his sudden death on Saturday said:

"Lord Snowden was a great man who held to principles in which he believed with extraordinary tenacity. He was also a great patriot, a formidable foe but an invaluable friend."

Lady Snowden has received messages of sympathy from the King and Queen and Queen Mary, Negotiations are in progress with a view to obtaining a suitable site as near as possible to the centre of the town of Stanley.

When the site has been obtained it is proposed that it should be thrown open immediately as a playing field for children and improvements carried out as funds permit.

The cost of adapting such a site is estimated roughly at £800 but this does not include the cost of the erection of facilities for games and amusements.

The Committee have agreed that the type of playing field to be laid down should be well sheltered with a wind screen and sufficiently large for games and to include the erection of swings, a merry-go-round, etc., and possibly a small enclosed area for sailing boats and a sand pit.

It has also been decided that the entrance gates should be designed in such a manner as to memorialise suitably the Playing Field.

AMERICA BANS TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR RACE.

Washington. The United States government have decided to prohibit American participation in the New York - Paris air-race for which the French government offers 375,000 francs in prizes. America will not assist in the arrangements and will, according to the Daily Telegraph Correspondent, probably refuse foreign airmen permission to leave for France. Over twenty entries were received for the event which was intended to celebrate the 10th anniversary of Colonel Lindberg's first solo crossing. Colonel Johnson, Assistant Secretary of the Commerce Department, in announcing the ban said that the government were not permitting stunt Atlantic flights as they did not want to jeopardise the trans-Atlantic air service.

The French aviation circles severely criticise the ban. The suggested transference of the starting point to Canada cannot be made without a special International Aeronautical Federation meeting, and Canadian permission. The postponement of the race is anticipated.

ALBANIA REVOLT SUPPRESSED.

Tirana. The southern Albania revolt was virtually suppressed within twenty-four hours by the government troops who were enthusiastically received when occupying Argirocastro after defeating the rebels thirty miles from the city. The revolt it is believed was headed by a former interior minister whose brother was killed in the fighting.

An official statement says that the documents found on the rebels show communist influence. The country remains calm.

King Zog is receiving numerous loyal telegrams but the revolt is believed to be partly due to Italian domination and reforms, including the unveiling of women.

BETTER AIR SERVICE FOR THE EMPIRE.

The Postmaster General entertained to luncheon yesterday, on behalf of His Majesty's Government, delegates to the Imperial Conference and officials of overseas government departments. In proposing a toast to Imperial communications, Major Tryon said a great Empire air mail scheme would be a happy result of the Imperial partnership. Under that scheme new Empire flying boats, built for Imperial Airways, would inaugurate an epoch making development in the carriage of mails.

"The principle underlying our policy", he said, "is that transmission by air should be regarded not as something exceptional but just as an ordinary form of transport. We contemplate, what we call, an all up service. Postage on first class mail sent from the United Kingdom will be three halfpence per half ounce for letters and a penny for post-cards. The service will be even more speedy than those provided by air at the present time, and they will become faster as time goes on. A start is to be made in about a month's time with a service to South and East Africa. Similar services to India and Malaya will, I hope, begin at the end of this year and a service to Australia early in 1938."

In reference to television the Postmaster General said the range at present was usually about twenty-five miles. It is hoped that some day television would reach other parts of the Empire.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE DELEGATES AND IMPERIAL SHIPPING.

As a result of the informal meeting of representatives of the delegations to the Imperial Conference yesterday it was decided to set up a committee to deal with constitutional questions, particularly in regard to nationality legislation. The governments of Canada, South Africa, and the Irish Free State have already passed legislation on this subject.

The personnel of the committee will be agreed upon at a meeting of heads of delegations to be held at 10 Downing Street to-day.

The committee dealing with shipping questions held its first meeting later under the chairmanship of Mr. Walter Nash, New Zealand. A general discussion took place on shipping and its vital importance to the Commonwealth, and will be resumed at a second meeting, the date of which has yet to be fixed. The committee will, in the course of its deliberations, consider all the aspects of the Imperial shipping problems including such questions as flag discrimination and subsidised competition. The report of the Imperial shipping committee will also be reviewed and it has been decided to collect relevant statistics concerning shipping and to circulate various papers on the subject to the respective delegations of the Economic Committee under the chairmanship of Mr. Havenga of South Africa. At to-day's meeting of heads of delegations it is expected consideration of foreign affairs will be begun.

MR. EDEN INTERVIEWS PRINCE OF YUGOSLAVIA

The Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden, was a guest at a luncheon at the Iranian Legation yesterday. Last night he dined at the Turkish Embassy.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCECommittee on Constitutional Questions Set Up

A communique issued last night, after the first meeting of the principal delegates of the Imperial Conference at 10 Downing Street, states that a committee on constitutional questions was set up. A discussion on foreign affairs was begun by a review by the Foreign Secretary of the general international situation, which was supplemented with some remarks by Mr. Baldwin. After a short discussion of a preliminary character the meeting adjourned until Friday morning.

Yesterday afternoon's meeting of the principal delegates lasted an hour and three quarters and of that time Mr. Eden's speech occupied an hour. He gave a complete survey of the international outlook covering a great deal of ground and dealt with problems confronting Europe and the world. A portion of his review was of an historical character. There was a general feeling among the delegates that before any particular expression of view was given, time should be allowed to study what had been said by the Foreign Secretary. It is probable Mr. Eden will, at subsequent meetings, be asked to explain various points in greater detail.

of his favourable impressions of cordiality with which he had been received. He would take back to Germany the very best impressions. The party afterwards drove to Winchester to visit the cathedral, en route to attend the Naval Review.

OIL IN ENGLAND.

The work of searching England for oil deposits is going on slowly and steadily. It is only a little over a year since the Board of Trade granted the first concessions, and it is likely to be at least as long again before oil begins to flow from far below the Sussex Downs or the Lancashire Wolds.

But the concessionaires have not been idle. In some places shallow boring has already started. The shallow boring does not merely mean scratching at the surface of the earth, but sinking shafts to a depth of not more than five hundred feet. Such boring has already taken place in Dorset, behind Lulworth Cove, and in the Lewes district of Sussex. This is a stage which is reached only after much preliminary scientific work.

GERMAN AIR MINISTER VISITS R.A.F. ANDOVER STATION.

Field-Marshal Von Blomberg, German Air Minister and head of the German delegation to the Coronation, paid a visit to the Royal Air Force station at Andover yesterday. The Field-Marshal and his party were met by Air Chief-Marshal Sir John M. Steel and the Air officer Commanding-in-Chief bomber command. Afterwards in an interview Von Blomberg said he had been greatly honoured to come to the Coronation. He was impressed by the very cordial way he had been received by statesmen and people of high position in Great Britain. He had no doubt that important people in Germany would be interested to hear

DISCOVERY OF NEW COUNTRY

News of the discovery of hitherto unknown land in the Antarctic has been received at Oslo in a wireless message from Mr. Lars Christensen, the Norwegian explorer recently.

It is stated that Mr. Widero, the Norwegian airman who is assisting Mr. Christensen, discovered a range of mountains between the 35th and 40th degree of longitude. The highest peak is said to be approximately 5,000 feet.

The Norwegian flag was dropped from the plane at a point 38 degrees East, 69.30 degrees South, Mr. Christensen said.

THEIR MAJESTIES THE KING AND QUEEN

AT PORTSMOUTH.

The King and Queen, accompanied by Princess Elizabeth, left London by train yesterday afternoon and descended at Cosham Station, outside of Portsmouth, for a drive through six miles of cheering crowds to the Guildhall. After a civic ceremony they proceeded to the dockyard and embarked on the Royal Yacht "Victoria and Albert". Their Majesties were received with the greatest enthusiasm along the route which was lined by police assisted by 400 men of the Royal Navy, 150 Royal Marines, 700 regular and 300 territorial troops together with guards of honour composed of 2,000 Girl Guides, 1,000 Boy Scouts and 800 ex-servicemen. There are now 160 warships in line ready for to-day's review. Yesterday morning the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Samuel Hoare, paid an informal visit to the ships of the Royal Canadian Navy, New Zealand Division of the Royal Navy and the Royal Indian Navy.

JAPANESE HIGH ORDER
CONFERRED UPON HIS MAJESTY

Yesterday morning the King received in audience Prince Chichibu who presented to His Majesty the Collar of the Supreme Order of the Chrysanthemum, conferred upon him by the Emperor of Japan. In making the presentation Prince Chichibu said the Emperor had charged him to give assurance of his ardent desire to maintain and further strengthen the traditional ties of amity between Japan and Great Britain. In his reply the King said that this sentiment would find ready echo in Britain and that it would be his constant endeavour to maintain and develop friendly relations between the two countries in every way within his power.

Last year 12,849 people left Britain to settle in the Dominions, while 21,029 came from overseas to take up residence in Great Britain.

The Non-Intervention Subcommittee have decided to appeal to both sides in Spain to renounce aerial bombing, and take other measures to humanise the conflict. Further directions wherein tentative steps to be taken were the control and use of the Spanish capital assets and a scheme to prohibit the departure from the signatories territories of non Spanish persons, whose activities might prolong and embitter the conflict.

TWINS ON A VEGETABLE DIET.

In a recent report D. E. Lane makes some interesting observations on the effect on the growth of twins of a vegetable diet planned to contain all the requirements suggested by modern scientific studies on nutrition. These children are now 7 years old, and Dr. Joseph Brenneman, after examining them on their last birthday, considered their state of nutrition to be excellent: the teeth were good and there was no evidence of dental caries. The twins had apparently been free from infection of any kind. The dietetic regime was as follows. They were given "vegetable milk" and increasing amounts of orange juice and cod-liver oil during infancy, with the gradual addition of wheat, barley, rice, potato, legumes, and various fruits and vegetables in season. At approximately 3 years of age their general condition was so good that it was thought advisable to go on with this type of feeding until their physical state should warrant a change to the convenient mixed diet containing cow's milk.

BLANKETS OF GLASS.

It is stated that a firm in the north of England has discovered a process by means of which glass can be spun like textiles, and produced on a commercial scale. Special machinery has been designed which draws glass, white heated, into a fine thread which can be twisted into delicate fabrics with a sheen more glistening than satin. These fabrics resemble dress and household fabrics in every way, for they can be cut with scissors and worked on any sewing machine. They have many advantages over ordinary cloths, for being extremely light they can be used in making the flimsiest dresses and underwear. As glass is a bad conductor both of heat and cold, they will serve ideally for blankets, topcoats, curtains, and lagging, which at present is made of asbestos.

BRITISH INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION.

The Board of Trade index of the number of industrial production for March quarter as 0.2% less than in the fourth quarter of last year but 7.1% greater than in corresponding period of 1936. The production of iron and steel goods and the activity in industries, covered by engineering and ship-building groups, constituted records.

LONDON BUS STRIKE.

The Delegate Conference of London tramway men, which met yesterday to consider the question of a sympathetic strike action in support of the Central London Omnibus men, unanimously decided against unofficial action, while pledging itself to carry out any recommendation by the executive of the Transport and General Workers' Union. The Union executive has consistently declined to authorise the extension of the bus strike to other sections of the London transport.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF POLICE

ON ROAD SAFETY.

The annual report of the Chief Commissioner of Police, Sir Philip Game, contains interesting comments on road safety problems as information collected by the police force and the analysis of accidents bear upon them. Of the 35,815 road accidents, in the six months period of 1936, involving death or injury just under half occurred at road crossing or junctions, and a significant fact emerges that 40.7% occurred at uncontrolled junctions, whereas only 8.4% occurred at junctions controlled either by police or automatic signals. Of the pedestrians injured 76.4% were themselves responsible, according to the evidence of witnesses for the accidents in which they were involved; a point to Sir Philip's conclusion that the crux of the whole problem is how to improve road sense, and care and consideration among all classes of road users.

He cites as examples political demonstrations in Hyde Park and Victoria Park of which crowds of 1,200 and 5,000 people assembled according to police computation. In these instances estimates of 250,000 and 100,000 respectively appeared in the press.

REFUGEES TO LAND AT SOUTHAMPTON

TO-MORROW

The latest effort, one of the many made in Britain in the past ten months, to lend humanitarian assistance to the victims of the Spanish Civil War in a spirit of complete neutrality is taxing to the utmost the ingenuity and resources of the British National Joint Committee for Spanish Relief. About 4,000 Basque children refugees from Bilbao have to be found temporary homes from to-morrow or Sunday, when they are due to arrive at Southampton. Many of the children will go into camp. Others have been offered shelter in the homes of sympathisers, and a generous donor has put a large country house at the disposal of the organisers for the purpose of an hostel. Some of the heavy woollen busting used in the Coronation decorations will be utilised to make blankets for the refugees.

THE NAVAL REVIEW.

The shores and heights of the Isle of Wight and the mainland and the decks of liners and pleasure craft of all sorts and sizes, with crowds estimated at over a million persons, watched the King review his fleet at Spithead yesterday afternoon. Soon after 3 o'clock the royal salute was fired from all ships as the Royal Yacht "Victoria and Albert" entered the review area and began a twelve mile cruise past the lines of warships, the decks of which were manned with blue and white clad ships' companies and with arms linked. The King stood up in the bows of the Royal Yacht taking the salute, and the Queen and Princess Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family were assembled on the bridge. At 5 o'clock the Royal Yacht had finished its cruise and then it took up its moorings at the head of the fleet.

A fly past of the fleet air arm followed.

Last Night's Searchlight Display.

At 10 o'clock last night, at a signal from the Royal Yacht "Victoria and Albert" moored at the head of 160 warships, the whole fleet in review lines switched on its illuminations. The spectacle, said to be the finest ever witnessed at Spithead, was greeted with cheers of crowds hardly diminished from those which yesterday afternoon watched from the mainland and the Isle of Wight and the decks of the liners and excursion steamers, the majestic sea-pageantry of the Royal Review of the British Navy. The programme of illumination, which continued till midnight, included searchlight and fireworks display. The King and Queen watched the scene from the deck of the Royal Yacht with guests whom Their Majesties had entertained to dinner last night.

O B I T U A R YDeath of famous philanthropist.

The death took place yesterday at Edinburgh of Sir Alexander Grant who was a well-known philanthropist. His services to education were particularly noteworthy, and as a result of his beneficence several scholarships and bursaries were founded, and handsome donations were made to Edinburgh University. He contributed £200,000 to the founding of the Scottish National Library. Sir Alexander was a man of humble birth; he was particularly generous to friends of his youth. These included Mr. Ramsay MacDonald to whom, in 1924, he presented a motor-car. This week it became known that Sir Alexander has presented £10,000 worth of silver and banqueting plate and household goods to Holyrood Palace, the Royal residence in Edinburgh.

With the idea of giving an improved dental service certain changes, to take effect from the 1st of June, are to be made and the attention of the public is called to them.

1. In order to avoid interference with routine treatment of patients, special 'Consultation Hours' have been set apart for new patients. Persons who desire dental treatment are asked to see the dentist at these 'Consultation Hours' to arrange a time when the actual work can be done; arrange for payment etc., etc.,

(2.) For the benefit of those who may find it difficult to visit the dentist in ordinary hours Evening Clinics have been provided.

(3.) School Children - So many children need dental treatment that the Saturday Morning Clinic has proved insufficient. To meet this, one evening clinic on Wednesday from 5.0 to 7.0 has been set aside.

To give effect to these changes the following time-table has been arranged:

	Consultation a.m.	Treatment a.m. p.m.	Consultation p.m.	Treatment p.m.
Monday,	10 - 10.30	10.30 - 12.30	6 - 6.30	6.30 - 8.0
Tuesday	10 - 10.30	10.30 - 12.30	-----	2 - 4.
Wednesday	10 - 10.30	10.30 - 12.30	4.30 - 5.0	5 - 7. (Children)
Thursday	10 - 10.30	10.30 - 12.30	6.0 - 6.30	6.30 - 8.0
Friday	10 - 10.30	10.30 - 12.30	-----	2. - 4.
Saturday	10 - 10.30	10.30 - 12.30 (Children)	-----	-----

N.B. It will be noted that the Consultation Period is provided every morning and on Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the evening as well.

(4.) There has been difficulty in the past over the collection of fees and this has made necessary the somewhat stricter application of the Regulations. Urgent cases will be dealt with as promptly as circumstances permit and without regard to the financial aspect but the cost of routine work will be estimated at the Consultation Hour when appointments are being made. It will then be necessary to produce a receipt from the Clerk covering the cost of the work before the Dentist will begin treatment.

Charges in whole or in part may be remitted by the Governor in Council upon the recommendation of the Senior Medical Officer but this must be arranged first not after the work is done.

STANLEY SPORTS ASSOCIATION.

Report of Annual General Meeting.

The Annual General Meeting of the Stanley Sports Association was held in the Church Hall on the evening of the 17th instant.

In his address, the Chairman referred to the success of the Christmas Meeting. He went on to say that the reorganisation of the Programme was responsible for a gratifying increase in entries, and although about £180 had been spent on Prizemoney the Association had made a profit of £13 on the year's working. This alone, he said, reflected credit on the organisers. He informed those present that the Association would welcome suggestions from any quarter which might still further attract competition. One matter that had to be faced was that of obtaining the voluntary service of the members in carrying out the essential organisation of the association and with this end in view he had drawn up a list which would be presented to them later of members who might be invited to become Officers of the Association and who would, he hoped, agree among themselves to act in turn as Secretaries and Treasurers so that these duties would fall only once every few years on the same individual. This list would be presented annually for addition or otherwise. In this way he was hopeful, with their support, that the smooth running and continued prosperity of the Association would be assured.

ANGLO-AMERICAN TRADE AGREEMENT DISCUSSED.

A trade policy was discussed by Mr. Walter Runciman in the House of Commons in a speech last night in which he made reference to negotiations for an Anglo-American Trade Agreement. Defending the tariff system introduced in 1931 and 1932, the President of the Board of Trade said he would like to emphasise his view: firstly, that if you carry tariffs too far they become madness, secondly that if you attempt to dispense with them in a world which has adopted them as a fixed policy you reduce your bargaining facilities and you are bound to suffer - and the United Kingdom in this respect would suffer more perhaps than any country in the world. He was prepared to agree that any form of preference adopted might be subject, if necessary, to alterations to suit changed conditions. "In making a new survey of the world as we are doing we will not overlook the fact that there is more than one way in which preference can be applied, but we must not be asked to abandon the preference system which is now an essential part of our Imperial policy. We cannot abandon it, and we do not seek to abandon it."

Speaking of his American visit, Mr Runciman described the frank exchange of views he had had with President Roosevelt, whom he called one of the most remarkable men of the age.

RIVAL NOTTS MINERS' UNIONS TO AMALGAMATE.

The Mines Secretary, as a result of a further meeting of the parties yesterday, was able to inform the House of Commons of a provisional agreement of the amalgamation of the rival Nottinghamshire miners' unions, which is expected to be a means of averting the threatened national strike in Britain of the coalfields. A new effort to reach a settlement followed on the appeal for industrial conciliation made by the Prime Minister in his recent speech in the House of Commons.

The terms of the amalgamation agreed upon yesterday are to be submitted to the delegate conferences of the Mineworkers' Federation of Great Britain, which will meet in London to-day and of the Nottinghamshire Miners Industrial Union. Captain Crookshank told the House that as soon as the terms of the amalgamation had been ratified, effect would be given to the agreement also reached between the parties regarding re-employment of the men at Harworth Colliery where victimization had been alleged, following the local strike last November, out of which originated the national dispute now brought near to a settlement.

MUSSOLINI AND SPANISH WARItalian Losses to be Published

Brussels. Signor Mussolini, in an interview published in the "Vingtieme Siecle", makes important declarations on international questions, states the Daily Telegraph Correspondent, particularly on the Spanish War with reference to which the Duce says that so long as it continues European peace is endangered, but he intends publishing the full Italian losses as evidence of the national sacrifice for European defence against Communism. Mussolini further declared that Belgium's new status, by the relief from the Locarno obligations, has settled the problem of west European peace, while Italy's attitude towards the new Locarno was a readiness to renew all guarantees on condition that the spirit and the framework of the treaty were left intact. He asserted that Germany would not attack the French Maginot Line, and while Belgium had nothing to fear from other countries she should organise her own defence on a solid basis. The Duce also attached the greatest importance to the recent Italo-Jugo-Slavian pact and added that Britain would understand this, but meanwhile Italy was in a position to resist all attacks in the Mediterranean, and he was not the only one to know it.

A MARVELLOUS CLOCK.

There is a clock at Ottery St. Mary's, Devon, which was erected there when Edward III was King of England. Armed men stood by and guarded it night and day, for it was placed to tell the time for prayer, for labour and refreshment. For centuries it did its duty faithfully, and then it stopped through neglect. It remained, unnoticed and unchanged for about thirty years, when some one pieced it together and started it working again in 1907. That clock is working to-day.

P A R L I A M E N T A R Y.MR. BALDWIN AND MR. RAMSAY-MACDONALD RESIGN.

Yesterday's events include a number of incidents showing an atmosphere of sincere, if regretful, goodwill in which two statesmen most closely associated with the great experiment of a National Government, inaugurated in 1931, are retiring from active parts in political life. Prolonged cheers from all parts of the House greeted Mr. Baldwin when he rose in the Commons yesterday afternoon to make, what was taken to be, his last answer as Prime Minister. A member, in supplementary, asked if he would consider the propriety of a certain future procedure. Mr. Baldwin replied: "I do not consider it would be an act of propriety on my part to enter into the question of what this House might do next week." At the conclusion of yesterday morning's meeting of the Imperial Conference, at which Mr. Baldwin presided, the Dominion Prime Ministers and Sir Zafrullah Khan, on behalf of Indian delegation, expressed their great regret that this was the last occasion on which he would preside over an Imperial Conference. References were made to the great part he had played in the Imperial Conferences in 1923 and 1926 and the Prime Ministers and Sir Zafrullah Khan expressed to him their good wishes for his future on behalf of all the delegates. Mr. Baldwin thanked them and expressed his implicit faith in the future of the Empire and his confidence in the success of the present Conference.

Mr. Macdonald Declines High Title.

References were also made to the retirement of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and the services which he had rendered as chairman of the Imperial Conference of 1930. Mr. Macdonald had an audience of the King at Buckingham Palace yesterday on the eve of his resignation as Lord President of the Council. Newspapers recalled, in connexion with his audience, Mr. Macdonald's special position as ex-Prime Minister who had headed two Labour Administrations and the first National Government.

It is reported that the King expressed his desire to recognize the services which he had rendered to the state in the course of a long number of years and asked whether he would accept a high hereditary honour. It is understood that Mr. Macdonald, while fully appreciative of the kindness and thoughtfulness of His Majesty, asked the King to permit him to decline, and that permission was given.

M.P.'s SALARIES TO BE INCREASED TO £600

As his last announcement in the House of Commons, the Prime Minister informed the House yesterday of the Government's decision regarding the Members' salaries. He said: "In accordance with the undertaking I gave on the 7th of April, I have made further enquiries into the question whether the salaries of the Members of Parliament should be increased. The existing figure of £400 was fixed in 1911.

It is, I think, obvious that if £400 was adequate in circumstances then existing, it cannot be so regarded in the very different conditions which prevail to-day. After a careful consideration the Government have decided to propose that the figure should be increased to £600 and the necessary steps will be taken at an early date."

SECOND READING OF THE CIVIL LIST.

By 240 votes to 112 the Commons gave a second reading to the Civil List Bill. The opposition votes were recorded in favour of the view already taken by the Labour Party that greater simplicity in the daily life of the Court is essential in the modern democratic constitution of the British Commonwealth. Mr.

Greenwood for the opposition said that British Monarchy existed by the will of the British people, and with the general approval of the people of the Dominions and was recognized as symbolising the fundamental unity of those peoples freely associated in the British Commonwealth of

"ANNIE LAURIE".

The estate of Maxwellton, Dumfriesshire, was recently on the market for letting. Maxwellton House, originally a fortress of the Earls of Glencairn, and known as Glencairn Castle, has been held by the Laurie family since 1611. It was the home of Annie Laurie, the heroine of the famous Scottish ballad.

Anna, or Annie Laurie, daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, the first baronet, was born at Maxwellton in 1682. She was first engaged to William Douglas of Fingland, author of the original words of the song, but the engagement was broken off, and in 1709 she married Alexander Fergusson, of Craigdarroch - a neighbouring property.

Mr. Chamberlain remarked in conclusion: "I do not take opposition to the motion as meaning any hostility to the idea of Monarchy, or of suggesting that if we have Monarchy it should not be kept up with due regard. I take it that it is for the purpose of placing on record a point of view which has been put forward in very moderate terms."

He believed the Kingship would gain in dignity by permitting it privacy it did not now enjoy, and by destroying the barriers of splendour and display which stood between the King and the people. Mr. Neville Chamberlain in reply questioned the Labour assumption that widespread feeling existed in favour of simplification, but suggested, in so far as it was present, that the people would prefer the simplification to come from the King's own inclination and natural disposition. This matter has recently been considered by the Royal College of Physicians, and the following resolutions were passed.

- "1. That a daily ration of milk is important for the growth and health of children.
 - "2. That the risk of tuberculosis and other disease following the consumption of raw milk is considerable.

 - "4. That such pastuerisation does not materially interfere with the nutritive value of milk.

SIGNOR MUSSOLINI'S ARMS MOVE.

Washington. According to a correspondent of the Daily Telegraph there is no question of President Roosevelt taking the initiative in calling a World Arms Conference; although a Belgian newspaper interview, which Signor Mussolini granted on Tuesday, was supported by a visit of the Italian Ambassador to the State Department with the information that the views expressed were authentically those of the Duce. No invitations will be issued by the United States Government until it possesses convincing evidence of the desire of all parties concerned that such a conference should succeed. A press comment makes a point of Italy's inability to match Britain's rearmament without threatening her economic structure and then having to call on the United States for help. The Italian press hails Mussolini's arms move as "a supreme example of statesmanship." The French press also refers to the Italian apprehensions of the British and French rearmament.

Bilbao. Assisted by Government bombers the Basques assumed the initiative along the southern front in the Barambio sector and made a drive on the San Pedro Heights. Geneva. The Spanish Legation has issued a White Book relating to the Italian aggression in Spain which contains 100 photostatic

U.S.A. IN THROES OF STRIKE FEVER.Fever Spreads to Mexico.

New York. The United States is in the grip of the worst labour trouble since 1919 with 85,000 steelworkers in five states idle as a result of the stoppages of twenty plants, states the Daily Telegraph Correspondent. The strike was called for by the Lewis committee of the Industrial Organisation, with intention of forcing independent concerns to sign collective bargaining agreements. The Republic Steel, Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet are the three concerns principally affected; pickets paraded the plants throughout the day. The feeling is more intense in Detroit where the Lewis Automobile Union is now acting against the Ford Motors and clashes with the police have already occurred. The strike fever has spread to Mexico where 17,000 oilworkers were to cease work on Thursday night but it is understood that President Cardenas was expected to intervene.

AUSTRALIAN EULOGY ON MR. BALDWIN.

Sydney. The Australian press, without exception, pays tribute to the retiring British Premier, Mr. Baldwin, for his sincerity, integrity, statesmanship, tact and commonsense, allied to the disregard of personal aggrandisement. "Above all - an Englishman," says the Melbourne Herald. "who has been a great leader by reason on qualities which cannot be analysed except for his genius in assessing British reaction to larger issues." The Melbourne City Council is endeavouring to induce Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Macdonald to attend as guests of honour on the occasion of the 150th anniversary of New South Wales colonisation in 1938.

PRIME MINISTER MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAINFORMS NEW CABINET.

Mr. Baldwin resigned yesterday morning and was succeeded as Prime Minister by Mr. Neville Chamberlain. The new Government was completed and in office within a few hours.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain's Cabinet is composed of twenty-one members, one less than Mr. Baldwin's. Mr. Chamberlain is succeeded as Chancellor of the Exchequer by Sir John Simon and Sir Samuel Hoare goes to the Home Office. The Cabinet Ministers who continue in the same office are the Lord Chancellor Lord Halsbury, Foreign Secretary Mr. Anthony Eden, Dominions Secretary Mr. Malcolm Macdonald, Secretary for India and Burma Lord Zetland, Colonial Secretary Mr. Ormsby Gore, Minister for Coordination of Defence Sir Thomas Inskip, Air Secretary Lord Swinton, Secretary for Scotland Mr. Walter Elliot, Minister for Agriculture Mr. W. S. Morrison, Minister of Health Sir Kingsley Wood, and Minister of Labour Mr. Ernest Brown. Several Cabinet Ministers assume new offices. Mr. Duff Cooper succeeds Sir Samuel Hoare as First Lord of the Admiralty, and is himself succeeded as Secretary for War by the former Minister of Transport Mr. Hore Belisha. Mr. Oliver Stanley becomes the President of the Board of Trade held in the last Government by Mr. Walter Runciman, who has retired and has been created a Viscount. Lord Stenhope is to be President of the Board of Education and the new First Commissioner is not included in the Cabinet. The Lord Presidency of the Council, left vacant by the retirement of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, is taken by Lord Halifax. Two newcomers to the Cabinet are Lord De La Warr, who becomes Lord Privy Seal, and Dr. Leslie Burgin, who is the new Minister of Transport.

The Cabinet is composed of fifteen Conservatives, four Liberal Nationals and two National Labour members.

Earldom conferred on Mr. Baldwin.

Early yesterday morning Mr. Stanley Baldwin tendered his resignation to the King, who sent for Mr. Neville Chamberlain who accepted His Majesty's invitation to become Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury. It was announced simultaneously that on Mr. Chamberlain's recommendation the King had conferred an Earldom on Mr. Baldwin. In the afternoon Mr. Chamberlain visited the Palace again and submitted to the King the list of the new Cabinet. The Ministers affected by the changes in the Cabinet were also received by the King and at a Privy Council meeting which followed they exchanged seals, took the oath and kissed hands on their new appointments. The Prime Minister of New Zealand Mr. Savage and the Canadian Minister of Justice Mr. La Pointe attended the Council meeting. The Duke of Kent, who was made a Privy Councillor in the Honours List, was introduced into the Council.

MR. A.P. HERBERT'S BILLPASSED.

By 190 votes to 7 the Commons carried the third reading yesterday afternoon of the Marriage Bill introduced at the beginning of the Session by Mr. A. F. Herbert, Burgess for Oxford University. Mr. A. P. Herbert is a well-known novelist and journalist who sought election to Parliament for the explicit purpose of championing reforms in divorce laws which he claimed to be overdue through the unwillingness of parties and Governments to take up proposals which were liable to offend a strong minority feeling although they commanded a widespread but unorganised support. After the rising of the House members of all parties crowded round Mr. Herbert and congratulated him on his achievement in securing a passage of the Bill through the Commons. This was only made possible by the Government providing extra parliamentary time in a response to a general feeling of the House.

The chief features of the measure, which has been approved by representative churches, are the extension of the grounds for divorce from adultery to include

NON-INTERVENTION IN SPAIN.Mr. Eden's Speech at Geneva.

In a speech at the League Council in Geneva last night the British Foreign Secretary said that despite many difficulties it had to face the Non-Intervention Committee had made great progress in limiting foreign interference in the Spanish conflict. "While, however, we are entitled to register measures of success which have been achieved, the governments of Europe cannot be satisfied that the objectives of the Committee have been realised until the last foreigner has been withdrawn from Spain, and until that unhappy country has been allowed to settle her own destiny in her own way. Foreigners engaged in hostilities, whether on one side or the other, have no business on Spanish soil. When at length the conflict is over the Spanish people will not readily forget the large part foreign nations have actively played in the destruction of Spanish life and property."

Mr. Eden added that the British Government were aware of the International Committee's scheme for the withdrawal of volunteers and had made enquiries among other governments to ascertain whether they would join an approach to both contending parties in Spain - such approach being limited to asking them to agree, temporarily, to cessation of hostilities on all the Spanish fronts for a period sufficient to enable the withdrawal to be arranged. Premature publicity had led to certain amount of confusion. So far no approach had been made and none would be made until the Non-Intervention Committee had agreed on both plan for withdrawal and plan for temporary cessation of hostilities. A number of replies had been received from several governments but he would not attempt to analyse them at present.

THE NOT CROWDED PARTY ?

Old Mrs. Brown was fond of entertaining her friends, but she disliked having what she termed a "crowd."

At dinner on Christmas Day, there were present herself, her husband, her daughter Jane, her cousin Tom and his wife, her sister-in-law's brother, his wife Matilda, and her next-door neighbour, Mrs. Jenkins.

As this, in her opinion, was the smallest party she could give, perhaps you can discover exactly how many people were present ?

NO ARMISTICE

Valencia "The Spanish Government will neither discuss nor tolerate any form of armistice", the Foreign Minister, Sr. Jiral told Reuter and added, however, that the Government accepted the principle of recalling volunteers as long as the withdrawal was not brought about by the cessation of hostilities.

To be perfectly happy you must be perfectly just.

BRITAIN'S AGRICULTURAL SCHEME.

An important statement of the Government's proposals for increasing the productivity of agriculture, with a view both to defence requirements and to establish industry on a sounder economic foundation in peace time, was made at the House of Commons' Question Time by the Minister of Agriculture. Estimated to cost a maximum of £3,500,000 and a minimum of £1,740,000 per annum, the proposals include a large scale and comprehensive campaign for the eradication of animal diseases involving the centralisation of the Public Veterinary Services - extension of exchequer grants for land drainage - assistance to farmers in raising the fertility of the soil by increased application of lime and basic slag - stimulation of wheat-growing by an increase from six to eight million quarters of limit of "Anticipated supply" under the Wheat Act, having effect of giving additional insurance to wheat-growers in the event of a new fall in wheat prices - and schemes in respect of oats and barley also in the nature of an insurance to the growers against low prices. Mr. W.S. Morrison prefaced a detailed description of the scheme with an explanation of the Government's decision regarding the agricultural policy in relation to problems of defence upon which he has been repeatedly questioned in recent months. He said, in the opinion of the Government, that to put agriculture on a war time footing with all the augmentation of the farming community and heavy cost it would involve, would not be practicable at the present time; nor in their opinion is the situation such as to require the adoption of this course in time of peace. The Government were equally satisfied that considerations of the national defence would not justify the policy in peace time of stimulating agricultural production to such a pitch that the country would be faced with a highly artificial situation which, sooner or later, would have to be liquidated if the emergency did not arise. The Government had decided that the best course in the general national interests was to continue their efforts to improve the general prosperity and efficiency of home agriculture, and in particular to promote an increase in the fertility and productivity of the soil. Their proposals were so designed that should an emergency arise the country would be in a position immediately to take advantage of the improved fertility, and should no emergency arise it would be increasing the productivity of the land and the stock by means which were consistent with and not opposed to the normal development of agriculture on economic lines in time of peace.

Mr. Morrison intimated that the necessary legislation to give effect to the Government's proposals would be introduced at the earliest possible moment.

EMPIRE AIR DAY.

Saturday was celebrated as Empire Air Day and large crowds took the opportunity of visiting fifty-three Royal Air Force Aerodromes, which had been thrown open to the public, and of watching displays of various kinds, including the formation of aerobatics. The Air Secretary Lord Swinton himself made a tour by air of a number of aerodromes where displays were in progress.

FINANCE BILL.Second Reading To-day.

When Mr. Neville Chamberlain's Government meets in the Commons to-day the business will be the second reading of the Finance Bill, which will be moved by Sir John Simon the new Chancellor of the Exchequer. Two motions for rejection of the Bill have been tabled. The conventional opposition motion is in the following terms: "The House cannot assent to the second reading of the Bill which in time of peace and rising prices embodies an unbalanced budget, thereby promoting further increases in prices and depressing the already low standard of the life of pensioners, unemployed wage-earners and other persons of small means, and which fails to deal adequately with profiteering in armaments, or to raise an equitable share of their cost from those most able to bear the burden."

But the other motion has been tabled by eight backbench Conservatives and reads: "The House cannot agree to the second reading of the Bill until arrangements have been made for a further investigation into the effect of part three - national defence contribution - upon trade recovery and expansion and upon employment, and until the views of those engaged in the trades and businesses affected have been fully ascertained and reported."

The tabling of the motion was followed by a meeting of the Conservative Members of the Finance Committee at which a strong criticism of Mr. Chamberlain's amended proposals for National Defence contribution was voiced.

Political writers in newspapers, other than the financial dailies, generally express confidence in the ability of the new Chancellor to show that the modifications introduced by his predecessor before he became Premier, go a long way to meet the objections raised by leaders of business to the original outline of proposals. The same writers predict that Sir John Simon will be supported in the debates on the Finance Bill by Mr. Chamberlain himself, who was responsible for the Budget.

G. E. C. FACTORY BLAZE.

Wembley. Many employees were overcome by the fumes when fighting a storeroom blaze in the General Electric Company's factory until the fire brigade arrived with gas masks. The outbreak was subdued after five hours, the firemen encountering molten glass. Eight firemen afterwards had to receive hospital treatment.

BYE-ELECTIONS PENDING

The elevation to a peerage of Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Runciman and Sir John Davidson bring up to eleven vacancies in parliamentary constituencies. This is an unusually large number for bye-elections to be pending at once.

EMPIRE AIR DAY CASUALTIES.

Further deaths resulting from Saturday's air crashes are Miss Elsie Abbey, occupant of a house struck at Hanworth, boy Henry Betts, Doncaster air-liner passenger, and Reginald Good of Dublin, the pilot whose plane struck the Sugar Loaf Mountain. With Friday's two fatalities there have been seventeen killed in three days.

Portland. When H.M. Destroyer "Fearless" left here escorting the refugee liner "Habana" to Bilbao she carried guns painted red, and red and white shields establishing the vessel's nationality owing to the tension in Spanish waters.

NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE MEETING.Safety for Naval Vessels.

The Chairman's Sub-Committee of the Non-Intervention Committee will meet to-day when it is understood consideration will be given to possible measures for ensuring the safety of naval vessels of the participating powers engaged in patrol duties, under the control scheme. The observation scheme is not recognised by the parties in the conflict and therefore naval patrols are not entitled to use Spanish ports as bases. Such vessels, however, are subject to the complying with the usual formalities entering these ports as warships of friendly powers. The activities of a civil war necessarily create risks for neutral shipping, but the Insurgent authorities have indicated safety zones in the principal ports. The Valencia Government, in response to British representations, have now defined a safety zone at Palma, which is in Insurgent control. It is naturally expected, however, with or without safety zones that armed forces of both sides will take every precaution against damaging neutral shipping. A Plenary Session of the International Committee will take place to-morrow and it is anticipated the Committee will then be in a position to resume discussion of the appeal to both sides in Spain for greater respect for humanitarian principles in the conduct of the Civil War.

THE BOMBING OF THE "DEUTSCHLAND AND GERMANY'S RETALIATION AT ALMERIA"

London. News of the bombing by Spanish Government aeroplanes of the German battleship "Deutschland" at Iviga has caused profound regret in British official circles. The loss of life among the German crew would in itself have aroused keen sympathy here and this was expressed to the German Minister by the Foreign Secretary yesterday morning but regret is deepened by the feeling that the incident has come at a most unfortunate time for Europe in general when certain optimism was permissible as a result of the relief of the tension noticeable in recent weeks.

This feeling of dismay has not been lessened by the policy of retaliation which was immediately adopted by the German Government, and which is deplored here. Britain has, in the course of the Spanish Civil War, suffered a great deal of provocation from both sides and while occasion has been taken, when necessary, to make it clear that any persistence in deliberate attacks would be resisted and each of the long series of incidents leading up to and including the dropping of bombs by Government aeroplanes only a few days ago in the neighbourhood of British and Italian warships, has been followed up by diplomatic action, and in no instance has there been recourse to reprisals, Resentment excited in Germany by Saturday's regrettable incident is well understood in London but there is the strongest conviction that what general interest demands at this juncture is a maximum of restraint on every country's part. Yesterday Mr. Eden had conversation with Dr. Woermann of the German Embassy, and with the French and Italian Ambassadors, and arrangements were made for him to see the German Ambassador who has been slightly indisposed.

It was announced that yesterday's meeting of the Chairman's Sub-Committee of the Non-Intervention Committee had been cancelled and that at the request of the German representative the Plenary Session of the International Committee had been summoned, but this arrangement was subsequently modified and instead the German representative sent a letter to the Chairman of the Committee containing a statement on the bombing of the "Deutschland" on behalf of the German Government. In these circumstances the Committee met as planned to consider further the question of security of warships of powers participating in the observation scheme. It is understood that the German Government's communication announces the withdrawal both from participation in control scheme and from International Committee proceedings until such time as the security of the German vessels engaged in patrol duties is sufficiently assured, but in British circles the view is taken that there is no question of any change in Germany's attitude to the principle of non-intervention which she still supports, and hopes are entertained that the interruption of her association with the International Committee work and naval control scheme will be purely temporary.

The bombing of the "Deutschland" was the subject of a private notice question in the Commons, to which the Foreign Secretary replied: "I understand that the German armoured ship 'Deutschland' was bombed from the air whilst at anchor in Iviga Bay on Saturday and the bomb exploded on the mess deck causing, I much regret to say, a large number of casualties. About twenty badly wounded naval ratings are being cared for in the Military Hospital in Gibraltar. I am not yet in receipt "of full reports in regard to the incident and I should prefer to make no further statement at present. I have also received information from one of His Majesty's Ships that the German armoured ship 'Admiral Schöer' bombarded Almeria from 6.30 to 7. a.m. to-day. In the course of an interview I had with the German Charge d' Affaires this morning I asked him to present to his Government the earnest hope of His Majesty's Government that his Government would take no action such as would render the present grave situation graver still. "

GERMAN AND ITALIAN REPRESENTATIVES NOT PRESENT AT CHAIRMAN'S SUB-COMMITTEE MEETING

A press communique issued last night after the meeting of the Chairman's Sub-Committee of the Non-Intervention Committee states that representatives of the United Kingdom, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Portugal, Sweden and Russia were present. Captain Evan Wallace, Chairman of the Committee, communicated to the Sub-Committee the text of a letter received from the German representative explaining why, on instructions from his Government, he would be unable to be present. Captain Wallace added that just before the meeting the Italian representative informed him that for similar reasons he also would be unable to be present.

The representatives present indicated that they proposed to report to their respective Governments the situation disclosed in the statement made by the Chairman.. The representatives present requested the Chairman to summon a further meeting as soon as he thought this would be advisable.

GERMANS AND ITALIANSWITHDRAW FROM CONTROL SPANISH WATERS

The Foreign Secretary again made a statement in the House of Commons yesterday on the situation arising from the bombing of the "Deutschland". He said the German Government had decided to take no further part in the naval patrol of the Spanish coasts, or in discussions of the non-intervention committee so long as they had not received sure guarantees against repetition of such occurrences. A similar decision had been taken by the Italian Government. "I understand, however, as an outcome of the enquiries I have made that these governments regard the international scheme of observation as still applicable to them in every respect, with the exception of their participation in naval patrol."

A RECIPE FOR SUCCESS.

A man who is very much in the news at the present time on account of his generosity, Lord Nuffield, says that there is only one recipe for success - hard work. Speaking in Australia recently he said: "Hard work is the only real road to success for any youngster." Lord Nuffield has proved the truth of those words, for hard work and ambition have raised him from the position of a humble cycle apprentice to that of one of the world's greatest magnates. He is not an exception. If we read lives of famous men we find them distinguished for the great amount of work they could perform. Away back in history we find this to be true of Washington, Napoleon, Wellington and other military leaders. Jonson, a common bricklayer, became Ben Jonson the famous poet and dramatist. Haydn, the son of a poor cartwright, became the eminent composer. Dr. Livingstone was a worker in a factory, and he achieved world fame. And all through hard work. As we turn our attention to our work and make plans for our own advancement during this year, we can profit from the advice and example of these famous men. Lord Nuffield says: "There is no reason in the wide world why any lad who sets himself to it cannot build up a business as big as mine." Success, he says, will come if you have ambition and the desire to work. If this is true of the small personal things, the rule applies also to the bigger things in life. If we desire to see peace and prosperity come to our land, we should be prepared to work for it. To lose heart because the task is too great is to admit failure. But if we conquer our difficulties by honesty and hard work we will find that our reward will come in a twofold victory of material success and the personal satisfaction of having done something worth while.

MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S FIRST CABINET MEETING.

The first meeting of the Cabinet to be presided over by Mr. Neville Chamberlain took place in the Prime Minister's room at the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. Two new members, Lord De La Warr Lord Privy Seal, and Dr. Leslie Burgin Minister of Transport, were warmly welcomed by their colleagues.

Time and His Majesty's Government had not therefore been informed of of Japanese intentions with regard to battleship construction. Mr. Duff Cooper added that since their refusal to accept the fourteen inch gun limitation no further representations on the subject had been made.

EFFORT TO ERADICATE CHINESE CUSTOM

When the Colonial Office vote was discussed in the Commons yesterday, Mr. Ormsby Gore announced that another day would be left open for discussion on the report of the Palestine Commission when it had been received. The Colonial Secretary referred to the recent report of the Commission on "muitsae" but declined to make any statement pending the receipt of observations thereon of the Governors of Hong Kong and the Straits Settlements and their Executive Councillors.

The British Government had set its hands to the plough in an effort to eradicate a Chinese custom which, in its opinion, was an evil, and it was essential if success was to be achieved that Chinese public opinion should be carried in favour of reform and therefore be welcomed by a growing number of Chinese reformers who were willing actively to cooperate in changing an old social custom which they agreed ought to be modified.

In opening an exhibition of working class furniture and equipment (organised by the Council for Art and Industry in London) yesterday by the Minister of Health, Sir Kingsley Wood said that housing progress was such that about a million people in the country moved last year into new houses. There was real need for advice and assistance which would enable houses to become real homes. There was a number of people who did not possess sufficient furniture and equipment to make their new houses a home because they had not the means to enable them to do so. Local authorities had power under the Housing Act to provide furniture for their tenants in such cases. A scheme at Birmingham enabled furniture to be supplied in suitable cases to young married couples. At Gateshead the Corporation, through local retailers, provided furniture and instalment payments were collected each week with the rent. It was noteworthy notwithstanding the industrial difficulties at Gateshead, that arrears of instalments were under two per cent of the amounts due for payment. The Corporation were raising the standard of tenants without cost to the rates. This was limited, but an important social field, and such efforts as these certainly gave many new opportunities for fresh starts in life for a number of poorer citizens.

THE FINANCE BILL

The Prime Minister, winding up the second reading debate on the Finance Bill in the House of Commons on Monday night announced the withdrawal of the proposed national defence contribution - graduated tax on the growth of profits - which was an outstanding feature of his Budget statement as Chancellor of the Exchequer. Mr. Chamberlain's speech followed a sustained and powerful attack on the proposal to which Mr. Winston Churchill made an important contribution.

After a general defence of the Budget proposals against opposition criticism the Premier turned to part three of the Bill, against which criticism had been directed

Their Majesties the King and Queen had a great welcome from a crowd estimated at 250,000 when they drove on to Epsom Downs yesterday afternoon, and, together with other members of the Royal Family, saw from the Royal Box "Midday Sun" win the race for the Derby Stakes from "Sand Prite", with "Le Grand Duce" third. The winner's owner, Mrs. G.B. Miller, is the first woman to win the Derby at Epsom and she was congratulated by their Majesties after the race. The second horse is also owned by a woman. The King gave a dinner party to members of the Jockey Club at Buckingham Palace last night.

BUFFALOES IN AUSTRALIA.

Would you believe that wild buffaloes roam in thousands over portions of the Northern Territory of Australia? Their principal feeding-grounds are in the Mary and Alligator rivers country east of Darwin. Here are great plains, coarsely grassed, and huge pandanus and tea-tree swamps, an ideal home for the slate-grey herds. At early dawn you may see them emerging from the shelter of swamp and thicket and spreading out in long lines across the plain. Towards midday, during the hot summer they generally congregate in small herds and seek the pandanus thickets for shade. Startle them, and they are off with the thunder and cracking of bush-fire as their hoofs stir the dry palm leaves. Buffalo shooters hunt them on horseback, shooting at full gallop.

A successful buffalo hunter must be a thorough bushman; able to handle natives; and have sufficient capital for outlay on horses, ammunition, and stores. He needs also a truck or lugger and crew to take his hides to Darwin and return with stores. Several hunters in the Territory shoot up to 3,000 buffaloes per year, though 1,000 is the average.

chiefly from ranks of the Government's own supporters.

He said he had to admit that there appeared to be general alarm as to the result of the proposed new tax which had held up business to an extent which was very undesirable. When the Bill was in Committee the Chancellor would not proceed with part three providing for national defence contribution, and meantime he would work out other proposals for a simpler tax upon the profits of industry. The tax would be designed to produce not less than £25,000,000 in a full year. Following Mr. Chamberlain's announcement the Bill was read a second time.

Announcing the withdrawal of the national defence contribution the Prime Minister said he was told the tax was expected to give a great deal of trouble and to cost a great deal of money, and to detract people from attending to ordinary routine business. On the other hand he was told industry wished it to be understood that they did not challenge the propriety of finding the amount he wanted from profits.

"It seems to me I should not only be something less than prudent but I should be stupid if I were to persist in a particular method of getting what I want - which already is not going to give what I want - if I can get it by simpler methods and in a larger amount." That was what, after consultation with the Chancellor of the Exchequer, he proposed to do. He would not anticipate what the proposal with the Chancellor would be. This would require a new financial resolution and the first intimation the House would have of the nature of the new proposals would be when the Chancellor tabled the resolution, which would be on the earliest possible occasion.

BRITAIN HOPES TO PREVENT BREAK-DOWN OF NON-INTERVENTION POLICY.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs declared that in the present difficult situation it had been the object of His Majesty's Government to prevent, by all means in their power, the breakdown of the policy of non-intervention in the Spanish struggle, and to avert the very grave situation which would arise if such a breakdown resulted in renewed influx of foreigners into Spain for the purpose of taking part in the struggle. His Majesty's Government, therefore, considered that the essential aim should be full international cooperation in the work of the Non-Intervention Committee, and the scheme of naval observation of the Spanish coast should be restored with the least possible delay. With this aim in view His Majesty's Government had communicated on Wednesday night to the governments concerned, proposals which it was hoped might provide adequate guarantees against the recurrence of incidents such as those which brought about the existing situation.

He added: "It is our hope that the proposals in question will enable the policy of non-intervention to be fully resumed by all the governments concerned. His Majesty's Government attach more importance to such a development since they are anxious to make progress as fast as possible with the question of withdrawal of foreign combatants in Spain. They regard this matter as urgent and hope that in an atmosphere of renewed international collaboration it may be possible to continue to work for an agreement on the subject.."

PRISON CONDITIONS IN ENGLANDYoung Offender's Ambition to be Prime Minister

Prison conditions were discussed in the House of Commons yesterday and Sir Samuel Hoare, making his first speech in the House as Home Secretary, said that the chief problem to-day was the young offender and the prevention of recidivism. There were two methods which might be advocated. The first was that of making prison discipline so rigid and conditions so inhuman that governors might hope that the prisoners, after one experience, would be deterred from running the risk of going back to prison. In actual practice they had found that the method had not succeeded in reducing recidivism. The other method was an attempt at evocation of lost self-respect and at character building. Experience along these lines showed that as prison administration had become more humane the number of habitual criminals had been lower. For some little time prison administration had taken direction of trying the experiment of appealing to prisoners' better instincts and, most important of all, of seeking to give them an interest in things that really mattered in the world. They had adopted the principle of giving privileges which were lost by bad behaviour, rather than holding out indefinite hope of them as regard of good behaviour. He was able to announce that, so far as prison commissioners and the Home Office could judge, that experiment had succeeded. It has been so successful that it has been decided to extend its scope at three convict prisons namely, Chelmsford, Parkhurst, and Dartmoor by giving prisoners an opportunity of earning wages which might be spent upon minor relaxations, such as cigarettes.

The Home Secretary also spoke of the need of modernising many prisons which were antiquated in character, having been built many generations ago when ideas of prison administration were very different.

Following, in a debate which a number of criticisms and suggestions were advanced, the Under-Secretary, Mr. Geoffrey Lloyd, said he was authorised to state that the Home Office would go very carefully into them all. He claimed that there was a very satisfactory decline in the numbers of the prison population. Help of psychologists, which members had advocated, was being increasingly enlisted, particularly in respect of vocational guidance of first offenders. Mr. Lloyd amused the House by instancing a case of a boy offender who was reported, after mental test, to show outstanding intellect.

He wrote an essay which revealed his ambition to become a prime minister. The decision of the experts was, he added, that despite this ambition he ought to make an excellent rating surveyor.

This is revealed in the seventeenth annual report of the Imperial War Graves Commission.

INTERNATIONAL SHIP.The "Terje Viken"

This ship which was down South last whaling season has an interesting record of internationalism. She is a factory ship with a displacement, fully laden, of over 43,000 tons. Financed in Sweden, built in Germany, manned almost entirely by Norwegians, she sails under the British flag. The history of the ship's name is of interest, as showing the relationship between Norway and Britain. "Terje Viken", the name of the ship, was the name of a Norwegian sailor who became a national hero because he sank a British ship. He was captured by the British during the Napoleonic wars. When he was released and had returned home he found that his family had died of starvation as a result of his imprisonment. He determined to sink the first British ship he saw - and did so.

J U N T A.

The word "junta" has been used frequently in the news about the Spanish Civil War. It is a Spanish term for a small body of men acting in unison. It was applied to the committee that looked after various departments of State, and in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to informal bodies chosen in times of unrest. In England, in the form junta, it was applied generally in a disparaging sense to a small group of men who controlled the affairs of State.

BORING FOR OIL IN ENGLAND BEGUN.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA ANDIMPERIAL DEFENCE.

Speaking at a dinner in his honour on Friday night Mr. G. M. Huggins, Prime Minister of Southern Rhodesia, said there was no necessity for representation of Southern Rhodesia to discuss such matters as Imperial Defence. They had such faith in the democracy of Britain that they were convinced the British Government would never be allowed to go to war for a cause that Rhodesia could not wholeheartedly subscribe to, and in that faith Rhodesia would do everything it could to be in a state of preparedness and to assist to the limit of its capacity.

TRIBUTE TO NON-CONFORMIST.

High tribute was paid on Friday night to the work of the eminent Non-Conformist divine, the Rev. Dr. Jones who after 39 years as pastor of the Congregational Church at Bourne-mouth, is retiring at the age of seventy-two years. The Archbishop of Canterbury in a letter read at a dinner to the Reverend Jones referred to his very special place among leaders of religions in the life of the nation. The Chancellor of the Exchequer, (Sir John Simon) the Bishop of Winchester, the Earl of Malmesbury, and Lord Marks were among those present at the dinner. Sir John Simon, who said he was himself the son of a congregational manse, warmly tributed the example of good citizenship and brave championships of many good causes which had been set up by the Rev. Dr. Jones.

GERMANY'S NATIONAL DEFENCE.

Addressing 150,000 Nazis at a Nazi rally in Rehensburg, Herr Hitler said the reason why Germany had not disarmed was that she was distrustful, and this time it was up to the other nations to be first since formerly other nations could have abandoned arms while Germany was herself disarmed, but the opportunity was ignored. Hitler also took occasion to criticise democracies because of strikes and unrest adding only national socialism could have achieved what Germany had accomplished during the past four years.

Addressing an open air meeting at the Olympic Stadium, the Air Minister Goering revealed details of the national defence against air attacks, states a Daily Telegraph correspondent. After referring to bomb-proof shelters and precautionary measures Goering said the Reich had produced the most perfect gasmask, now available in millions for the population. He added that there was modified conscription for air defence and the ranks now comprised 12,000,000 members including 5,000,000 trained personnel, 2,400 doctors, 400,000 officials, 65,000 local headquarters, and 3,400 training schools.

While reports from Budapest reports the Hungarian Finance Minister Babirya travelling to London and the Polish President Moscicki, accompanied by the Foreign Minister Beck, is en route to Bucharest.

BASQUES FORCES COMPELLED TO RETIRE.

It is reported from Bilbao that the Insurgents launched an air attack in favourable weather on the Lemona Heights, and followed this by infantry waves compelling the Basque forces to retire to the western slopes where positions were reestablished. There were many aerial losses on both sides. The Basque "iron ring" was only saved from a further intensive attack by reduced visibility.

NAVAL PATROL OF SPANISH WATERS

Asked in the House of Commons to make a statement regarding negotiations with Germany and Italy on the resumption by these countries of their cooperation in carrying out of the non-intervention scheme, the Foreign Secretary replied that negotiations between the powers to whom was entrusted the duty of exercising naval patrol, were being pursued, and he hoped to be able to make a further statement in the course of the next few days. Asked in supplementary whether these negotiations were making satisfactory progress Mr. Eden replied, humourously: "There is seldom anything altogether satisfactory in the Spanish negotiations." Nevertheless it is known that in British circles exchanges which are still proceeding between London, Berlin, Rome, and Paris are regarded as showing fair hope of success. There appears to be a substantial agreement regarding proposals for safety zones, and assurances by the Spanish Government and the Insurgent authorities. Nor does it seem, on the most likely interpretation of the points which have been raised by Germany and Italy on the suggestion for consultation by the four powers in the event of future incidents, that there is any serious differences of views on this matter either.

BRITISH CREDIT.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer was asked in the House of Commons whether "he would continue to borrow in order to buy and neutralise gold so as to prevent credit inflation, or whether he would propose a revision of the tri-partite agreement before the inflow of unwanted gold reached uncontrollable dimensions." Colonel Colville, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, replied: "There is no indication of any unhealthy credit conditions at the present time, and no such conditions will be allowed to develop. The Chancellor of the Exchequer is not clear as to what provision of the tri-partite agreement the member has in mind but the Chancellor has no intention of departing from that agreement."

The International Conference on the whaling industry concluded its business on Tuesday with the signature to an agreement for the regulation of whaling in all waters.

The agreement was signed by accredited representatives of the Union of South Africa, United States of America, Argentina, the Commonwealth of Australia, Germany, the United Kingdom, the Irish Free State, New Zealand, and Norway. Canada and Portugal were also represented at the conference by observers and there is good reason to hope they will shortly accede to the agreement. It is also hoped to secure adhesion of other governments who did not take part in the conference but have whaling interests to preserve. The agreement comes into force on the 1st of July, subject to ratification and will be in full force until the 30th of June, 1938, with provision for its continuance thereafter.. The agreement follows on wholly familiar lines. There will be a close season for what is known as that is whaling prosecuted by whale catching ships attached to floating factories - for nine months of the year, except in the first year of its operation when the open season will be extended by one week at the end of the season. North of 40 degrees and south latitude as far as the equator pelagic whaling for baleen whales is absolutely prohibited, and this prohibition is extended to wide areas north of the equator. Certain species of whales - various right whales and grey whale - are protected absolutely, as are all whale calves and female whales attended by calves. It is also forbidden to kill whales below certain size limits - size limits being raised above those which have been prescribed by the agreement between the United Kingdom and Norway in the past.

When asked in the House of Commons whether the Foreign Secretary would make it clear that the British Government would not permit the invasion or conquest of Spain by any foreign power, the Under-Secretary Lord Cranborne said he was glad of the opportunity of emphasising that His Majesty's Government had made it clear on several occasions, and in particular before the Council of the League of Nations, that the preservation of the territorial integrity of Spain was a matter of great moment to them.

WHALING AGREEMENT SIGNED.

Under the agreement it will not be lawful to take blue whales of less than seventy feet in length, fin whales of less than fifty-five feet, humpback whales of less than thirty-five feet, and sperm whales of less than thirty-five feet. The extension of this form of protection to sperm whales, which has not hitherto received any protection, is one of the novelties of the agreement.

Whaling at land stations is to be subject to six months close season. The agreement is accompanied by a final act in which the conference discusses various matters not dealt with in the agreement, and recommends to the governments that they should prepare to take in an agreement with one another other measures for further protection of whales in the light of further experience and knowledge.

The conference further points out that the measures they have agreed upon may prove nugatory if ships of countries not parties to the agreement are permitted to indulge in unregulated whaling, and urges the importance of persuading all interested governments to accede to the agreement. It concludes with a warning that unless whaling is now strictly regulated the stock of whales cannot fail to be reduced to a level at which whaling ceases to be remunerative.

THEY COULD BRING PEACE.

It has often been said that if Great Britain and America would form an alliance, they could keep the world safe from war. This statement is probably true, but there are some differences between Britain and America which must be swept aside before that could be happen. America wishes at all costs to be neutral in any world conflict; she does not want to be involved in any other nation's fight. Britain, on the other hand is a member of the League of Nations and has agreed to stand by certain countries if they are attacked.

In trade matters too Britain and America could help the world by a friendly agreement, because trade quarrels are at the bottom of a great deal of the world's political unrest. President Roosevelt of America, said that trade agreements were the foundation of world peace.

Discussions have been held recently between leaders of trade in both countries as the foundation of a workable understanding on all these affairs.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR TO MEET MR. EDENImportant Discussions

Berlin. The German Ambassador in London, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, returned here on Tuesday night from Berchtesgaden after deliberations with Herr Hitler, and on Wednesday afternoon left Berlin by aeroplane for London. In political circles here it is asserted that to-day Von Ribbentrop will have important conversations with the British Foreign Minister, Mr. Eden, when beyond doubt the question of German freedom of action, in the event of unprovoked attack being made on German control vessels in Spanish waters, is likely to be discussed. Germany, it is declared, would not abandon her demand in this matter, and in the event of surprise action of a hostile character occurring must refuse recourse to consultations.

NAVAL PATROL OF SPANISH WATERS

Questioned in the House of Commons on negotiations following the "Deutschland" incident, the Foreign Secretary said exchanges of views which were taking place, with full knowledge and approval of the Non-Intervention Committee, between British, French, German, and Italian governments were concerned with guarantees which might be obtained from the two parties in the Spanish conflict to enable the work of the naval patrol which had been delegated to these four governments to be restored to full operation, thus permitting the committee to resume its work. Should any proposals be made in the course of this exchange of views which would involve modification of the scheme of observation itself, they would, so far as His Majesty's Government were concerned, be a matter for consideration by the committee.

THE CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN.

After nearly eleven months of fierce fighting, the parties in the Spanish civil war show no signs of ending the terrible conflict. The dispute began about the middle of July of last year, and since that time hundreds of thousands of people have been killed, including many innocent women and children who took no interest in politics and whose one desire was to live in peace.

The Spanish war is one of the most awful battles that has been fought in recent history, because it has divided the people in many lands, and on several occasions during the past ten months it has shown every sign of developing into an international struggle between the great Powers of the world.

For a long time prior to this outbreak there had been discontent in Spain.

Politics are divided into two chief sections, the Left and the Right. The Left parties include the Communists, Socialists and all those parties now in power. The Right parties include the Monarchists, the Catholic Party and the Conservatives, which were defeated at the last elections in February, 1936.

The Left, or Government forces are usually referred to as the Loyalists, and the Right forces, under General Franco, are usually called the Insurgents.

GERMANY'S NEW GAS MASKS.

A new type of gas mask is to be used in Germany. These gas masks, guaranteed safe for all known kinds of poison gas, will be issued in three different types - one for men, one for women and one for children. Besides affording protection against every kind of poison gas, the mask will exactly fit each person individually, practical experiments having been made.

WEST STORE CHIT CHAT.

What's the difference between a Cricket Ball and a Good Whisky?

"A cricket ball," said Johnnie Walker, taking one in his hand, "has got a seam - you can see and feel where the join comes - and so it is with poorly blended whiskies. But a good whisky like Johnnie Walker is somewhat like a billiard ball, perfectly round, perfectly smooth; the blends of rare whiskies are so skilfully 'married' that there are no 'edges' to the whisky."

NAVAL CONTROL OF SPANISH WATERS.

Yesterday Mr. Eden had conversations with three of the ambassadors of the other three powers cooperating in patrol work under the non-intervention naval control scheme. These conversations were preparatory to a joint meeting with M. Corbin, Herr Von Ribbentrop, and Count Grandi, which will take place to-day for the purpose of beginning a discussion of a formula in connection with the proposals for guarantees which have been accepted, in principle by French, German, and Italian governments. The exact procedure to be followed in giving effect to the proposals has yet to be settled but a successful issue from the difficulties arising from the "Deutschland" and other incidents is now confidently anticipated, and it is hoped that Germany and Italy will shortly resume their places in the international committee. As to the proposals aiming at improving the working of the naval control scheme itself, the view of the British Government is that they are not an exclusive concern of four powers. As the Foreign Secretary said in the House of Commons yesterday proposals involving modifications of the scheme of observation itself would be a matter of consideration by the non-intervention committee.

The chief pre-occupation of recent weeks has been the solution of difficulties arising from attacks on patrol ships so that the position could be restored, and the British Government has not, therefore, found occasion to take a definite line regarding amendments to the scheme, which have been ventilated in several quarters - notably in France. It is believed, however, that Britain would regard favourably a proposal for the presence on patrol ships, of observers of a different nationality from the navy to which the ships belonged, if appointed by the non-intervention committee for the purpose of a closer liaison within the control forces.

HOTTEST DAY FOR EIGHTY YEARS.

Berlin. With a temperature reaching more than thirty-five degrees centigrade, Berlin had the hottest day for eighty years yesterday. The Municipality had to engage an additional 3,350 workers for sprinkling the streets all day long. Sixteen thousand cubic metres of water, at the expense of 2,400 marks, are used daily for watering Berlin streets, while workers receive 30,000 marks in wages a day.

EXCHANGE EQUALISATION ACCOUNT.

The Chancellor of Exchequer was questioned in the House of Commons regarding the operation of the exchange equalisation account and foreign lending. He told the House "exchange equalisation account is used for checking undue fluctuations in exchange value of sterling and not for the purpose of maintaining a fixed sterling value for gold." He also stated that the policy of His Majesty's Government was to stimulate international trade with a view to maintaining industrial activity in the United Kingdom; but he added, in reference to the suggestion that for this purpose he should consider relaxing "the present absolute prohibition of foreign issues" that it would be a misapprehension to suppose there was an absolute prohibition of foreign issues. The terms of reference of the foreign transactions advisory Committee showed that special consideration was given to sterling issues on behalf of any borrower where proceeds were calculated mainly to produce direct benefit to British industry.

SECURITY FOR PATROL SHIPS.

The Foreign Secretary will again confer with the Ambassadors of France, Germany and Italy this morning regarding the formulation of proposals intended to give security to the patrol ships of the four powers which have undertaken the duty of naval control of the Spanish coasts under the non-intervention agreement. M. Corbin, Herr Von Ribbentrop and Count Grandi were with Mr. Eden for several hours at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon and considerable progress was made. It is hoped in British circles that to-day's meeting will see a successful end of the labours which have fallen to Mr. Eden and the three Ambassadors as a result of an agreement reached in principle between the four governments on British suggestions. The suggestions were advanced by the British Government with a view to restoring the situation, following the action taken by the German and Italian governments in consequence of the "Deutschland." incident.

NATIONAL PHYSICAL FITNESS.

After the third resolution the House of Commons passed for consideration the Physical Training and Recreation Bill which retrieved its third reading before the House rose. The bill has two main objects. It gives statutory authority for setting up of the necessary administrative machinery - the framework of which has actually been established in advance - for carrying out of the Government's national physical fitness campaign. Secondly, the bill enables the Board of Education to pay grants to local authorities and voluntary organisations for the same purpose. Mr. Kenneth Lindsay, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Education, mentioned that special consideration was being given to the use of films for arousing interest and giving instruction in physical education. The aim of the campaign was to stimulate voluntary endeavour and to create co-leadership of trained men and women to inspire the whole of the people with the idea of physical fitness.

NAVAL PATROL OF SPANISH WATERS.

FOUR POWERS REACH AGREEMENT.

The Foreign Secretary and the Ambassadors of France, Germany and Italy met at the Foreign Office on Saturday morning for three hours and again in the afternoon for two hours. At the conclusion of the afternoon meeting the following communique was issued:

"Meetings have taken place between the Secretary for Foreign Affairs and the French, German and Italian Ambassadors on the 11th and 12th of June at the Foreign Office for the purpose of discussing the steps which should be taken to ensure the safety of foreign warships engaged in the work of naval patrol in Spanish waters under the non-intervention observation scheme. The terms of a communication, to be addressed to the two parties in Spain, have been agreed upon and the text of this communication has been forwarded to the Chairman of the Non-Intervention Committee with a request that its contents might be made known to other members of the committee."

The Chairman of the International Committee will circulate a copy of the communication to the members of the committee during this week-end and the communication itself will be forwarded to the two parties in Spain early this week. The four powers represented at Saturday's meeting - which are the four powers entrusted by the International Committee with the task of control at sea under the observation scheme which they are carrying out at their own responsibility and at their own expense - were anxious as a matter of courtesy to keep the other members of the Non-Intervention Committee informed.

It is understood that the agreement embodied in the communication to the Spanish contestants follows the general lines anticipated. The parties in Spain will be asked to indicate safety zones in or near Spanish ports for the use of foreign warships engaged on control duties. They will also be asked to solemnly guarantee immunity of such ships from attack. Provision will also be made so that if despite these precautions some incident occurs there shall be consultation between all powers as to action, if any is necessary.

Recent discussion has shown that the right of self defence, in the event of attack, has not been questioned in any quarter but as a result of the agreement now reached it is supposed no retaliatory action would be resorted to before consultation had taken place between all four powers. It is assumed London would be the probable venue of such consultation which would certainly be of a diplomatic character.

H.M.KING TO VISIT BOYS' CAMP.

It is understood it is the King's intention, if State duties permit, to visit the seaside camp at Southwold, Suffolk, which he himself founded as Duke of York and which is attended every year by 200 boys from public schools and 200 lads from factories and workshops who spend a week together. This year the camp is being held from the 31st July to the 7th of August and His Majesty will, it is hoped, spend a full day during the week at the camp. In the past, on several occasions as the Duke of York, he spent a night under canvas with the boys but this year it is expected His Majesty will only be able to spend a day with them.

BLOOD TRANSFUSION.

The Editor
"The Penguin."

Sir,

"Nicotine" is certainly not a heavy smoker, judged by ordinary standards.

I consider myself an average smoker with between 16 and 20 cigarettes per day - but I admit that I innale.

It is probable that your heaviest smokers may not care to put their figures on record, even anonymously, but if it helps to satisfy "Nicotine's" curiosity I can vouch for the following two examples:- a friend of mine some years ago told me he averaged 75 cigarettes per day; and a man and wife out here not so very many years ago averaged over 90 per day between them - I do not know the proportions, but I think it safe to say that the husband was the heavier smoker.

Yours etc.

"Raleigh".

In every community cases of desperate bleeding occur from time to time. They are in the habit too, of occurring at inconvenient hours such as 4 a.m.

Most civilized places organize to meet such emergencies by listing those who are fit and willing to act as blood donors. Then, when the need arises, the surgeon in charge of the case knows where he can lay his hand on suitable material. In this Colony no such service exists and the Medical Department is making an appeal to such public spirited citizens as there may be, to come forward and list their names as donors.

The giving of blood entails no risk and a minimum of discomfort. To the recipient it may be all the difference between death and recovery. Nevertheless experience teaches that those who have been most assiduous visitors to the sick bed, suffer sudden decline in vigour, unexpected business elsewhere and a vague distaste for hospitals generally when the medical attendant hints that a blood transfusion is desirable.

His Majesty's Government are prepared to consider approaching the Spanish Government with a view to arranging the evacuation from Spain of women imprisoned in Madrid. This statement was made by the Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons in a reply to a member who questioned him on the numbers and on the conditions of women incarcerated in San Rafael and 'Carcel de las Ventas' prisons.

EXPULSION OF MISSIONARIES IN ABYSSINIA - ITALY'S REPLY.

Questioned about the expulsion of British missionaries from Abyssinia, Mr. Eden said His Majesty's Government had been in prolonged negotiation with the Italian Government with a view to securing permission for the missionaries to return to Abyssinia and to continue their work there or for their places to be taken by substitutes.

"I regret negotiations have not proved successful. The Italian Government has now informed the British Ambassador in Rome that it is their intention not to entrust to any foreigner, no matter what his religious denomination, the task of setting up any kind of school in Abyssinia. It will be seen, therefore, that the decision applies to all foreign missions irrespective of nationality. The Italian Government have, however, stated that if British religious missions desire to carry out humanitarian and welfare work in Abyssinia, apart from scholastic activity the request in that sense might, in certain conditions be considered. His Majesty's Government regret this decision. They consider it a wrong principle on which to proceed. It is not a practice of His Majesty's Government to allow a question of nationality to affect missionary work in British administered territories, but as the Italian Government have taken this decision, His Majesty's Government must reserve the right to consider a similar action in territories under British administration."

PRIME MINISTER AND A WORLD CONFERENCE.

The Prime Minister was questioned in the House of Commons by a Labour member regarding the calling of a world conference to discuss disarmament, removal of economic barriers and international administration of areas whose inhabitants were too backward to be capable of self-government. Mr. Chamberlain said in the opinion of the Government it was undesirable to consider calling a world conference on those subjects mentioned without such thorough investigation beforehand as would indicate that there was reasonable prospect of success.

As to the removal of international barriers, the Belgian Premier, Van Zeeland, was at the moment engaged on an enquiry into the possibility of reducing the international trade restrictions. Until the results of this enquiry were made known it would be premature to consider the possibility of a world conference on the subject. Asked if there would be an interim report the Premier replied: "I do not suppose there will be a report until Van Zeeland is in a position to say what he has ascertained!"

EMPIRE CHAIN OF AIR COMMUNICATIONS.

Prospect of establishing British Commonwealth chain of air communications, inter-connecting all parts of the Empire, and methods of cooperation which might be adopted with this aim in view were discussed by a committee of which the chairman was the Australian Defence Minister, Sir Archdale Parkhill. The committee arranged that the proposed air service across the Tasman Sea and the Pacific Ocean should be discussed by representatives of the delegations concerned. A resolution recommended to the Imperial Conference by the committee urges a vigorous policy by the Commonwealth governments regarding their air services and the closest possible cooperation. The methods of cooperation should leave room for each government's local control of its own services. Approval is given to the practice followed by nations of the Commonwealth whereby, when operational rights are granted to foreign air lines, the concession expressly provides for reciprocal rights as and when desired, and the desirability of including in such concessions general safeguard of the right of the government, at its option, to take over the ground organisation within its territory on suitable terms is suggested for consideration.

LONDON INFORMS SPAIN OF PROPOSALS FOR SAFETY.

A communication embodying the proposals to ensure the safety of foreign warships engaged in the work of naval patrol in Spanish waters, under the non-intervention scheme, is being despatched to the two parties in Spain by the British Government on behalf of the four naval powers.

It is not anticipated in London that either side will object to the request made to them for assurances for avoiding incidents in the future, and it is hoped favourable replies will be forthcoming with all reasonable speed.

The German and Italian Governments regard assurances as necessary part of the guarantees which they require and they will presumably await receipt of satisfactory answers before returning to full participation in the work of the Non-Intervention Committee.

It is expected that the terms of Saturday's agreement will be published within the next two or three days.

THE FOUR POWERS' AGREEMENT.

The British Government have now transmitted to the two parties in Spain the communication agreed upon at the week-end by the Foreign Secretary and the French, German and Italian Ambassadors. The text is as follows :- "First, that the parties should be asked to give specific assurance that they will respect foreign warships on the high seas and elsewhere, and will take steps to see that their naval and air forces give effect to this assurance. Secondly, that in order to avoid accidental attacks on, or damage to, foreign warships participating in patrol when lying in ports of either party, the two parties should be asked to come to agreement with the four powers upon a list of Spanish ports to be made available for use as bases for their patrol ships, and upon the definition of the safety zones which should be established in those ports. Thirdly, that the two parties should be informed of any infraction of the aforesaid assurances, or any attack upon foreign warships responsible for naval patrol will be regarded by the four powers participating in control as a matter of common concern and that the four, irrespective of any immediate measures of self defence considered necessary by forces of power actually attacked, will immediately seek agreement among themselves concerning the steps to be taken in concert, taking into consideration the views which the government concerned is naturally entitled to express, as to further appropriate measures.

THE EVACUATION OF SPANISH REFUGEES FROM BILBAO.

A statement on the present situation in Bilbao was made by the Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons yesterday. He said while reports were inevitably fragmentary and indefinite he understood the Basque Government were still directing defence from Bilbao

The evacuation of refugees had continued and on Sunday the "Habana" left Bilbao with over 4,400 refugees and proceeded under British naval protection to a French port. Mr. Eden mentioned the decision of the Government to continue to afford naval protection to evacuation of refugees as long as the Basque Government adhered to the understanding that the arrangements would only cover women, children, old men and hostages. He said he received on Monday an appeal from the Basque Government for diplomatic action to prevent further destruction of the centre of the city, pending evacuation of the civil population, and yesterday His Majesty's Ambassador at Hendaye had been instructed to inform General Franco of this communication, and to draw his most urgent attention to it. Finally Mr. Eden intimated the withdrawal of the British Consul from Bilbao yesterday morning upon his instructions.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE ENDED.

The Imperial Conference ended yesterday with a Plenary Session at St. James's Palace when speeches were made by all the principal delegates. The speeches showed the unanimous satisfaction with the work accomplished. The British Premier Chamberlain described the Conference as an unqualified success and the Australian Prime Minister, Mr. Lyons, said they had again demonstrated common sense and genius for the government of British peoples. He thought the Conference would go down in history as one at which the successful application of principles for which the Commonwealth stood was first clearly demonstrated.

THE IMPRESSIONS OF A NEW ZEALAND SHEEP FARMER.INTERESTING COMMENT ON SHEEP IN KENYA."Wonderful Possibilities for the Pastoralist"

Splendid country, enterprising owners, healthy flocks and a wonderful future, summarises the views on the Kenya sheep industry, expressed by a New Zealand authority, Mr. C.O.T. Rutherford, who, accompanied by Mrs. Rutherford, has just spent, in his own words, a "very pleasant two or three weeks" in Kenya.

In the course of an interview with the "East African Standard", Mr. Rutherford expressed views and made certain criticisms which, coming from one who has been connected with sheep "since he could walk", will be of interest to Kenya farmers.

Mr. Rutherford is the owner of the Craig-Lochart property at Marlborough; Blenheim, New Zealand, and a leading breeder and recognised authority on sheep. Mr. Rutherford owns a pedigree Merino flock, another raised from half-bred ewes, and a pedigree herd of Hereford cattle. In addition he takes a keen interest in racing and always has two or three race horses in training with which he said he had been "fairly successful and had won a number of the smaller cups.

Mr. Rutherford's present trip is a holiday, with a little business intermingled. After travelling from New Zealand to South Africa he came on to Kenya by air and sailed for Lourenco Marques on the m.v. "Ispingo". He intends to spend some of his time touring through the Cape Province, will visit the Merino studs in the various sheep districts of the Union before returning to New Zealand.

First Class Sheep-Country.

"From what I have seen of Kenya", said Mr. Rutherford, "I have been immensely impressed and from the sheep man's point of view, I think that the Colony has a wonderful future. I have visited the country round and beyond Nanyuki, Laikipia, generally, the Gilgil district and the slopes of Kenya, and I can say, quite sincerely, that it comprises some of the finest sheep country I have seen anywhere during the course of my life; and I have been dealing with sheep ever since I could walk. The Laikipia country would be classed in New Zealand as first class, half-bred country, while the drier districts around Gilgil and beyond are typical Merino country. Both these areas impressed me very favourably indeed and their potentialities seem to be almost unbounded.

The Free Movement of Game

"Over here you have no winter frosts to contend with and a fine climate for sheep generally. Only the occasional drought should cause any real worry. Of course the country is full of disease, but, thanks to the work of your people at the Veterinary Laboratory, there seems to be a cure for all the various diseases that afflict sheep. As I see it, if it is up to your sheep men to do their best and avail themselves of the remedies to hand; but I admit that the free movement of game adds tremendously to the risk of infection, in the case of tick-borne diseases.

On the whole, while your pasturage can certainly be improved (and that is a long job), it seems good to me. The best criterion of the merit of pasture is the condition of the flocks; and the sheep which I have seen have been wonderfully clean and healthy.

Breeders Have Done Very Well.

One point that particularly struck me was the way in which flocks have been built up and improved in some 10 to 12 years. I understand that native ewes were the foundation of most of the flocks, and, all things being considered, breeders have done very well indeed.

GERMANY AND ITALY TO RESUME NAVAL PATROL FORTHWITH.

The decision of the German and Italian Governments to resume forthwith their cooperation in the work of the Non-Intervention Committee was announced to the Chairman, Lord Plymouth, yesterday morning by the respective Ambassadors and was communicated to the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by the Foreign Secretary, who said he was glad to be able to tell the House of the two Governments resumption of full participation, both in the work of the Non-Intervention Committee and in the work of the naval patrol in Spanish Waters.

Mr. Eden added: "The House will note that the two Governments have now taken this action in advance of the receipt of the assurances which have been asked for from the two parties in Spain."

Commencing with an animal with no wool to speak of, some of your breeders have, in a short time, evolved a type that averages about 8 lbs, of very useful wool, by the use of pure bred Marino rams. I see no reason why this wool yield should not be increased by another 3 to 4 lbs.

Questioned in the House of Commons regarding foreign assistance to the two sides in the Spanish Civil War, the Foreign Secretary stated that since the agreement of the 20th of February concerning volunteers his information went to show that the flow of foreign nationals to Spain has been checked. The British Government, he said, would continue to work to prevent foreign combatants or supplies of war materials reaching Spain, and especially to secure an agreement on the withdrawal of all the foreign combatants.

STEEL STRIKE.Police and Strikers Clash.

New York. While there is no immediate possibility of a settlement in the steel strike, the dangers inherent in the situation were stressed early yesterday states the Daily Telegraph Correspondent detailing a crash of police and strikers outside Cambria Works, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, when tear gas and pistols were used to quell the riot. The unrest has spread to the shipbuilding and sixteen yards are affected with 15,000 idle and stopping work on naval construction. Meanwhile both sides are making warlike preparations, and of the British and Dominion Governments: the whole of the Diplomatic Corps, and many important service delegations from foreign countries will be amongst others attending. The number of aircraft taking part will be greater than ever, nearly 500 being engaged as compared with the previous maximum of about 200. Another feature of the display will be new types of aeroplanes recently supplied to service squadrons. Amongst them are the Bristol and the Blenheim medium bomber with a top speed of about 280 miles per hour at a height of 14,000 feet. This is the fastest bomber in the Air Force.

The principal new heavy bomber in service will be the Handley Page Harrow which will be seen among the squadrons allotted to the Coronation Mass Formation of 250 aircraft. It has a top speed of 190 miles per hour and carries a much heavier load than the medium bomber class.

The flying programme occupies 5½ hours during which the sky will never be empty. There will be low bombing and dive bombing attacks, aerobatics by single aircraft, by flights and by squadrons, demonstrations of army co-operation, ditches and use of "Smoke" and as a grand finale a thrilling set piece illustrating methods of attacking and defending a port primarily used for distribution of food supplies in war - a matter of vital interest to the British public.

OVERSEAS PRAISE OF IMPERIALCONFERENCE.

London press reports from overseas indicate widespread appreciation of the Imperial Conference activities. Canada says the British peoples have shown the world that coercion, regimentation and centralisation are unnecessary to ensure a common end, and the fullest freedom can achieve results when such ends appeal to reason and decency. South Africa says that the Empire has emerged stronger from family councils and are able to lead the world towards peace with a renewed confidence. Germany also recognises the Empire solidarity and finds that the secret of success is adaptability and understanding.

BOMB THROWING IN STEEL STRIKE.

New York. The steel strike situation shows no change. At Johnstown, Pennsylvania, a bomb was thrown into the Bethlehem Corporation Works resulting in several injuries, and the district is now heavily policed. General Motors were compelled to close works at Muncie, Indiana and Cleveland owing to steel shortage.

Hendaye. The Basque resistance in the defence of Bilbao has stiffened and the Insurgents who had expected to enter the town on Wednesday night were held up by fierce counter-attacks. The city streets are empty but the wireless station resumed service yesterday broadcasting defiance to Franco. Meanwhile the Insurgents have captured Galdacano, considered the strongest fortified point in Bilbao's "iron ring", with 2000 prisoners.

QUESTION ON THE GOVERNMENTS OF INDIA.Raised by Mr. Churchill in Commons.

One of the longest questions ever addressed to a Minister was answered by Mr. Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons yesterday when he replied to Mr. Winston Churchill's searching and detailed enquiries, tabled earlier this week, with the object of obtaining a close definition of the limits within which parliamentary questions relating to sterling in India will be answered in future. The Prime Minister's statement, like the question to which it was an answer, was of unusual length. Mr. Chamberlain began by making it clear that until part two of the Government of India Act, relating to Federation, comes into force no change in practice of question and answer at Westminster is called for in relation to operations of the Central Government. Apart from the well-known and well established convention against interference in the fiscal policy of the Indian Government, the Central Government remained legally subject, in respect to all its operations in direction and control, of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom. But as to Provincial Governments Mr. Chamberlain reminded the House that Parliament has deliberately decided to place upon Ministries answerable to Provincial Indian Legislatures the responsibility for the conduct of the government of the provinces. This responsibility was not plenary inasmuch as there were certain powers reserved to a Governor for certain specific purposes, and the affect of the Act was to leave the Governor free, in a last resort, to decide these matters as he himself thought was required for due discharge of his responsibility to the Imperial Parliament, even if the advice tendered him by his ministers would have led to another decision. The Prime Minister drew conclusion "that insofar as ministers are responsible to a Provincial Legislature for the government of a province it would be entirely inappropriate if this House were to call in question, or to criticise by question and answer, their policies and activities. On the other hand the Act specifically provides that, to the extent to which the Governors' special powers are involved and to the extent accordingly to which he acts, either without consulting or otherwise than on the advice of his ministers, he is subject to direction and control, in the first instance by the Governor General, and through him by the Secretary of State - in other words that he is answerable in the last resort to this Parliament. I suggest a broad general guarding principle which ought to be adopted as to the admissibility of questions on Indian provincial affairs and that such questions ought not now to be regarded as in order unless it can be shown either that action at issue was taken by the Governor without consulting his ministers, or against their advice, or alternately that the Governor was in possession of powers applicable to a case which in fact he failed to exercise."

SIR JAMES BARRIE SERIOUSLY ILL.

The bulletin issued by Lord Horder yesterday afternoon states that Sir James Barrie has lost ground since Wednesday night and his condition is less favourable.

WAGES INCREASE.

Changes in wage rates, reported to the Ministry of Labour, in the first five months of the year are estimated to have resulted in a net increase of about £367,000 weekly in full time rates of over 2,900,000 workers compared with an increase of £487,050 weekly in the whole of last year.

FOREIGN LOANS.

Answering a Member who wanted him, before relaxing restrictions on foreign issues, to take certain action in respect of foreign borrowers who had defaulted in the past, the Chancellor of the Exchequer declined in the House of Commons to discuss the suggestions stating; "I do not contemplate any change in the policy regarding foreign issues, and therefore the question does not arise." In the course of another answer Sir John Simon remarked: "I am not disposed to accept the view implied in the question that gold appears likely to lose its importance as a medium of international exchange." The Chancellor was also asked to estimate the total of British short term obligations to overseas creditors in relation to gold available as reserve against them. He replied he was not in a position to give any formal estimate.

TEACH THEM TO READ.

I am a country child and went to a very ordinary country school, but my mother developed my inborn love of reading. I never heard of a comic nor saw a thriller of any kind, but I loved the description in Gene Stratton Porter's book and longed for someone to write about Falkland Island nature as she does about American.

When I was able to choose between staying at home indefinitely as a general help on the farm without wages, or taking up a salaried job, I chose the farm.

I dimly felt then, what I know now, that the farmer lives in the heart of Nature, if his eyes are open to see it.

Yet I knew there was a fascination in city life once tasted - books had shown me that, but they showed it as only fascination, while CAN'T TRUST THE FAIR SEX.

James rose early, to get in the cows, and as he strolled across the dewy grass and dwelt upon the beauties and freshness of a new day breaking upon the world, he came face to face with a very belligerent Daisy. Having known Daisy for several years, he just smiled and advised her not to be a silly ass, but her ladyship was not to be coerced. She tossed her head and stamped her feet. Still James was unperturbed, but when Daisy positively screamed with rage, and made a dash, he thought it time to side-step a little. The paddock was large, the gate a long way off, and James dodged hither and thither, Daisy tap-danced faster and faster, until James decided he'd have to do something and do it quick. The only refuge in sight was the water trough, so off he sprinted, Daisy snorting her wrath, not far behind. Closer came the trough, but closer came Daisy. No use dodging around it, decided James, and not even stopping to shiver, he dived in, and there he stayed, just his nose out, while Daisy tripped a light fantastic of rage around and around. Half an hour later the head of affairs arrived, to see if James had gone to sleep on the job. It took a horse and two good dogs to rescue poor shivering James, no longer contemplating the beauty of the morn.

Would you believe it, Rosalie, James now vows you can't trust the fair sex, no matter how long you have known them, and he says the quiet ones are the most dangerous.

THE RUSSIAN METHOD.SCIENTIFIC AND INGENUOUS.

To what extent will the improved Russian methods affect the other producing countries of the world?

Figures released by the U.S.S.R. (Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics) disclose the astonishing fact that aircraft are used very extensively in Russia for sowing crops and for the elimination of insect pests.

By the use of aircraft in the last few years 1,038,750 acres of land have been freed from all types of insect pests. According to advice received these areas, principally Kuma in the Caucasus, Tercka, Saluka, in Dagostan, and the valleys of all rivers, were formerly breeding grounds from which, for many years, pests have emerged.

To-day it is estimated that close on 1,000,000 acres of fertile country, originally cleared of pests by aircraft, are sowed in the same manner. Experiments carried out since 1931 have led the Russians to believe that this is the best method of sowing such crops as rice, wheat, rye, barley, oats, Indian corn, tobacco, vetch and sunflowers.

ADVANTAGES.

The advantages of sowing by air are fourfold - firstly it is possible to sow early in spring, immediately after the melting of the snow, when it would be difficult for a sowing machine to move; secondly, the seed is sown without actual contact with the ground sown; with most crops this can be a great advantage for, as in the case of rice, it is possible to treat very damp ground, which often means that the most favourable conditions are present for the germination of the seed. Thirdly, the seed can be sown more evenly from aircraft over large areas in a very short space of time. Fourthly, one aeroplane is sowing 250 acres per day, which represents a big labour saving factor.

The methods employed are extremely scientific and ingenious. Ten-seater aeroplanes carrying pilot, mechanic and agricultural experts are used for the work. Four hundred and forty pounds of seed is carried on board of each machine, which treats 50 to 75 acres an hour. The aircraft then retruns to its base, where it takes on board, in powder form, an artificial manure and retraces its path, spraying the ground with this powder.

SOWING IN SNOW.

For months on end the ground is covered with snow. The agricultural experts found that they could turn this to good account by spraying fields, from the air, after sowing and artificially manuring with a phosphorus powder which was found to hasten the thawing of the snow.

THE RUSSIAN METHOD.

The only country in the world to use aircraft for any type of work akin to that done in Russia is America. Here crop dusting and spraying by air is in more or less an experimental stage, although aircraft are being rather extensively used for dusting cotton crops against the ravages of the boll weevil.

From this it will be seen that Russia's experiments have placed her far ahead of the world in agricultural research. It is believed that in a few years all crops in Russia will be sown by air.

they showed me that farm life could be an inspiration. Since then I have seen many country children to whom the choice has come turn straight to the town, and many who have had no choice fret for a gay town life.

Both radio and town boarding schools for our back country children only increase this dissatisfaction, but a good library and farming conditions which will give the children some chance to make use of the library ought to pull strongly in the other direction.

Neither farmers' wives nor daughters have time to give the necessary supervision to the children's lessons, but when a child loves reading no one needs to see that he finishes the chapter.

Three rules are suggested to cover the problem:

1. Let every child get a normal primary school course with a teacher who loves nature and can show the child how and what to read.

2. Provide the child with access to a good library.

3. Give leisure to enjoy it until the habit is fixed.

Then we shall have contented and educated and scientific farmers.

WAR NEWS.

Bilbao Front. The Insurgents are continuing to advance from the south-west supported by artillery and aerial bombardment, but the Basques are putting up a strong resistance on the final defensive line.

According to Bordeaux sources the Basque defenders lost 5,000 killed and 17,000 wounded in the recent actions.

It is reported from Cartagena that an explosion on a Government battleship, "Jaime I", resulted in 20 killed and 100 injured.

NEW YORK. The situation is considerably calmer in the steel areas, with employers and workers awaiting action by the Mediation Board.

TWENTY-SEVEN NATIONS APPEAL TOSPAIN.

His Majesty's Government was asked to address to the two parties in Spain, on behalf of the twenty-seven governments represented on the Committee, an appeal for protection of non-combatants whether men, women or children, and for ending of summary or mass executions of individuals for political reasons. The committee agreed on this step because it was "deeply impressed by the sufferings inflicted upon the people of Spain by the tragic events which have marked the present conflict and actuated by a desire to bring relief to families and homes of the Spanish people." The appeal urges that "hostages and prisoners of war, held by either party, should be treated in accordance with humanitarian principles and that for the future the system of hostages should be abandoned, and that all non-Spanish nationals, held as prisoners and who have taken no part in the present conflict, should be released. These principles should be applied equally to civilian adherents of the opposite side in the territory under control of the respective parties. Lastly, the International Committee urges that the both sides should abstain from destruction of all open towns and villages and other objectives of non-military character whether by bombardment from the air or by land or sea or any other means."

The appeal concludes: "The International Committee earnestly hopes the present appeal, which it believes corresponds with ideals and honourable traditions which have ever animated the Spanish people in the course of its history, will evoke response from the two parties and will help to lessen the cruel sufferings inflicted upon the civil population during the present conflict."

MINISTER OF HEALTH AND DISEASE.MILK FOR SCHOOLCHILDREN.

In a speech, replying to a debate in the House of Commons on his department estimates, the Minister of Health declared: "One thing is certain. In the long and continuous fight against disease and ill-health we are steadily gaining ground." Sir Kingsley Wood, in a review of the department's work, touched on a variety of questions. He repeated a forecast he made in a recent speech for legislation to secure additional confidential information required for the purpose of research into the population problem. After recalling favourable statistics relating to the rehousing of the people since the Great War, the Minister said that he recognised more had to be done, particularly for rural housing regarding which he hoped to take further steps at an early date.

Referring next to the preservation of the countryside, he gave examples of successful efforts on the part of several local authorities in different parts of the country.

Sir Kingsley dwelt at considerable length on the problem of NUTRITION. Recommendations of a valuable interim report, presented a few months ago by an expert advisory committee on nutrition, were being carried out. Local authorities were extending their provision of milk to expectant mothers and to schoolchildren, and increased Exchequer grants were enabling them to do more than in the past, while improvement in trade and rising wages were helping to solve the problem of malnutrition amongst the poorest.

IMPRESSIONS OF A NEW ZEALAND SHEEP FARMER.

The Importance of New Blood.

There is one criticism that I have to make in connexion with the breeding of flocks. It appears to be the general practice, no doubt due to the difficulty of obtaining pure-bred Marino rams, to keep a number of the best ram lambs for use in the flock. That is a fatal mistake and if the practice continues will undo a lot of the good work that has been done by Kenya breeders in grading up their flocks. As I said before, I think that the way the Kenya sheep men have improved their animals from native ewes is very creditable indeed. Particularly in the view of the fact (and I think I am right in this) that not many had even seen a Marino pure-bred when they first came out here. It must not be forgotten, however, that if the quality and constitution of flocks is to be maintained regular importations of new blood is essential.

Government Assistance.

It seems to me that the Government would be well advised to give some assistance to sheep farmers in the same way as the South African Government has assisted the sheep farmers in the Union. There, a substantial rebate (50 per cent., I believe) was allowed on the importation of Merino and other pure-bred rams during the period when the industry was expanding. A lot of splendid stock was imported (owing to this concession) from Australia and helped immensely in improving the Union's wool production. I understand that the Rhodesian authorities are considering the inauguration of a similar scheme. In Kenya assistance of this kind would not only help the sheep farmer but react to the benefit of the entire Colony. Kenya is handicapped to a greater extent in this direction than any other Colony or Dominion I've visited and a little help from Government would amply repay itself.

Experience of Other Lands.

Personally, and I have not only been in the sheep farming game all my life but my father was before me, I'm a great believer of sheep methods, both breeding and rearing, in other parts of the world. I make a practice of attending, as often as possible, the sheep sales and shows in Australia. I make a trip as often as I can to Sydney and get first hand information of the way things are done there and the latest methods of improving wool production and quality. I can assure any Kenya farmer who contemplates a trip to Australia or New Zealand that he will find it well worth-while and, moreover, he will be received with open arms by everyone in the industry. He will be entertained as hospitably as I have been entertained in Kenya - and I can't wish him better than that. The Wool Growers' Association will see that he is given every facility and taken out to visit a number of stations. In fact, the only difficulty any visitor is likely to experience is the difficulty of getting away again as, once he is on a "station" people there will pass him on from one to another, each vying with the last in hospitality.

You Can't run Stock and Game Together.

One thing you will have to do here sooner or later, and the sooner the better, is to confine game to proper reserves. That is if the sheep and the stock industries are to advance and prosper. The risk of tick-borne diseases, and the cost of fighting them, is tremendous when game have a free run in stock and sheep areas. If you confine game to certain areas you'll give your settlers a chance to get down to things and make necessary improvements to grazing and other matters. You can't run a sheep and stock industry and a game Paradise for tourists, side by side. We tried it in New Zealand, going to the extent of importing game such as red deer and other species to attract tourists, and we found it did not pay. Above all, keep rabbits away, for Heaven's sake. I've been told that the ants here would destroy the young rabbits almost as soon as they were born; don't give them a chance. In a country as fertile as this I should imagine that rabbits would breed even faster than they do in Australia and New Zealand, and millions sterling have been spent in trying to get rid of them in my part of the world.

"Well", concluded Mr. Rutherford, "I don't suppose you will want to hear any more from me, but I'd like to repeat how much I have enjoyed my stay and how greatly I have been impressed by the wonderful possibilities of Kenya for the pastoralist."

DUBLIN ELECTION .

The election campaign was intensified over the week end with Cosgrave and De Valera continuing tours of constituencies. Cosgrave addressing Cork Meeting asserted De Valera's tariff policy had increased the cost of living and reduced trade. He advocated membership of British Commonwealth under which there was no subordination and no lowering of national status, and he believed a settlement along these lines could be achieved.

SUBMARINES ATTACK GERMAN CRUISER.

London. Following upon reports that reached London on the afternoon of Saturday that submarines had made two attacks on the German cruiser "Leipzig" off Oran on the Algerian Coast, the German Ambassador, Herr Von Ribbentrop notified the other three powers participating in sea control of Spanish waters. The representatives of these Countries met during the afternoon at the Foreign Office and this evening at the conclusion of the meeting the following communique was issued: "Meeting of the French, German and Italian Ambassadors to London with Foreign Secretary Mr. Eden was held at the Foreign Office. The German Ambassador gave account of reports received by the German Government concerning the incidents involving the German cruiser "Leipzig". The Representatives of the four powers undertook to consult at once with their Governments and agreed to meet not later than Monday in accordance with the terms of the Agreement reached on the 12th June.

HITCH IN EVACUATION OF REFUGEES FROM SPAIN.

With reference to a statement issued in London on Saturday night on behalf of the Basque Government that the British battleship "Resolution" had signalled a message to the Captain of the Spanish Liner "Habana" that the British Government had forbidden the battleship to escort that vessel, it is emphasised here that no change whatever has been made in the arrangements whereby protection is afforded to ships transporting refugees from Bilbao to French and British ports. In recent weeks nearly thirty thousand non-combatant refugees have in fact been evacuated in vessels under the protection of British ships and under the supervision of His Majesty's Consul at Bilbao. A new problem has now arisen in connection with the request to protect vessels carrying refugees from Santander to France. Transportation from Santander was not contemplated in the original agreement and it is recognised that this question must receive grave consideration.

STEEL STRIKE.Strikers and Police Clash.

Johnstown, Pennsylvania. Following the encirclement of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation plant by 600 state police to prevent the entry of food or workers, at the order of Governor Earle, the State Attorney's Office announced that the Corporation has agreed to close the factory but has reserved legal rights against Earle who issued the original closure order. Mayor Shields and Corporation President Grace protest against Earle's action and the former has appealed to President Roosevelt to intervene, describing the industrial organisation as "Russian Reds" working to attain ends under the prestige of the President's name. A clash occurred at Johnstown on Sunday night between police and strikers when two were killed and twenty six injured. The Mediation Board were to meet the strikers' representatives yesterday, and the steel company's representatives later.

THE "LEIPZIG" INCIDENT.

Berlin. Intense political activity relative to the alleged attacks on the German cruiser "Leipzig" has resulted in Herr Hitler and his advisers deciding to take no action until the London discussions are completed states the Daily Telegraph Correspondent. Authoritative circles are confident that the Non-Intervention Committee will outline drastic action to prevent a repetition of such incidents but, it is declared, if the powers' decision is regarded as unsatisfactory, Germany will resume freedom of action in which case there will be some form of reprisals on her own responsibility as in the "Deutschland" case. A press comment stresses that the ultimate decision must lie with Great Britain as the chief sea power and, in the interests of world peace, a severe example must be made of those responsible for affronts to European peace.

CRISIS IN FRENCH PARLIAMENT.

Paris. Efforts were continued throughout the week-end to solve the deadlock created by the Senate's refusal to grant M. Blum dictatorial powers in financial matters and the Chamber's insistence upon them. According to the Daily Telegraph Correspondent a compromise measure drawn up by the Leftists of the Chamber and representing the limit of concessions, was rejected by the Senate. The Senate approved alternative proposals of its own and the Chamber arranged to discuss these immediately with a night long session in prospect. All parties fear the alternative outcome, should a compromise not be reached, which may result in the resignation of M. Blum or a dissolution and a general election. Strenuous efforts, however, are being made in political circles to avoid such results.

Later news from Paris reports the resignation of M. Blum following the Senate's rejection of Plenary Finance Bill. President Lebrun has requested M. Chautemps to form a Cabinet.

CAPTURE OF BILBAO.

Hendaye. The capture of Bilbao was effected by force of arms and at no point was there surrender. The final move was a concerted attack by tanks and armoured cars arriving along the San Sebastian road from the south and the entering of the city on the east, while massed infantry swooped down from Archanda slopes in the north. The retreating forces destroyed all bridges and considerable property. The insurgents are now developing positions and advancing along Santander road via Valmaseda. A FEW WORDS REGARDING QUALITY BISCUITS.

Certain varieties of cheap biscuits are being offered to the public. These bear the names of well known biscuits such as :- Cream Cracker, Afternoon Tea, Nice, and many other kinds the trade for which has been built up by

and other firms of like repute.

The goodwill created by manufacturers of good quality biscuits has given these cheap biscuits an appeal they could not otherwise have had. It is easy to use well known names and to offer inferior biscuits at prices lower than the quality makers, but the real test is the eating properties of the biscuits themselves, and the confirmation of this statement we can leave to our customers with absolute confidence.

Buy Macfarlane, Lang & Co.'s Biscuits at the Globe Store and be sure of getting Q U A L I T Y.

"LEIPZIG" INCIDENT.

London. A communique issued last night states that a further meeting to consider the incidents in which the German cruiser "Leipzig" was involved was held at the Foreign Office yesterday between the Foreign Secretary and the French, German and Italian Ambassadors. It was unfortunately found to be impossible to reach an agreement on the measure which should be adopted in this case. It was considered on the one hand that while proposals should be jointly examined for increasing the security of ships of the four powers on patrol, enquiry into circumstances of incidents should preclude any steps against the Spanish party involved. On the other hand facts were regarded as being clearly established and the incidents were considered to require immediate active steps in order to maintain solidarity of powers and forestall the occurrence of such incidents. The proposal on which agreement could not be reached was that immediate naval demonstration, showing the flags of the four should be held off the coast of Valencia.

PRESENCE OF FOREIGN NATIONALS IN SPAIN.

In a statement made in the House of Commons yesterday the Foreign Secretary recalled Lord Plymouth's observations at Monday's meeting of the Non-Intervention Committee to the effect that His Majesty's Government were most dissatisfied at the present state of affairs which in their view could not be allowed to continue if the existence of the Non-Intervention Committee was to be justified. Mr. Eden continued "In the view of His Majesty's Government the principal cause of the present unsatisfactory state of affairs is the presence of non-Spanish nationals in Spain. As the House is aware the Committee have before them a report which provides a plan for the withdrawal of these foreigners, but inevitably some time must elapse before such plan can be put into effect. His Majesty's Government have therefore offered to place their services at the disposal of the Committee in order to facilitate and to hasten the early withdrawals of foreign combatants which they desire should take place without further delay. I am not able at present to give further details of these proposals which are under consideration by the Governments of the parties to the agreement."

CURRENT COMMENT.

NEW ZEALAND WOOL SALES 1937.

A few years ago, when sovereigns and half sovereigns were the basic of currency, the clip of the sheep was commonly referred to as the golden fleece. There is still magic in the term, and the prices paid at Dunedin's third wool sale last week suggests that the flockmasters in this Dominion are still living in affluence. At this fixture crossbred wool realised up to 23d a pound, and a top price of 23½d was paid for two lots of fine halfbred. This was not only the best sale of the New Zealand season to date, but Otago wool growers had the benefit of the highest level of values since the boom period of 1924-25. It was estimated that the average price per pound was 17d, making a mean price a bale of approximately £24. One observer (perhaps an envious dairy farmer) remarks; "with wool at 1/- a pound the average sheep farmer is on a pretty good wicket; at to-day's prices he is on a cushion of velvet." Of course everybody will be delighted that at least one section of the farming community-and a very important section at that-has this year an opportunity of making substantial progress towards recovery from the devastating and prolonged slump period. It fortunately happens, too, that the altogether satisfactory realisation for the 1936-37 sales has been for an increased clip from flocks numbering nearly 1,000,000 more than they did in the previous year. At the opening sales of the selling season the Japanese were given all the credit for boosting the prices, but at the Dunedin sale, although Japan, America and Continental operators bought freely, the real fillip that was given to the wadding came from Bradford, whose eager representatives had apparently been given fresh instructions to secure a big proportion of what remains of New Zealand wool.

Salamanca. The Insurgents are continuing their advance on the Biscayan front to the south-west and west of Bilbao. According to a St. Jean de Luz message the evacuated British subjects and 250,000 Basque refugees are crowding Santander and many are on the verge of starvation. Apparently 40,000 Santander, Basque and Asturian troops are holding the mountain positions of the Bilbao Santander line.

Port of Spain, Trinidad. The entire oil industry is paralysed and all business is at a standstill with the strikers demonstrating and looting. The dock, transport and sugar employees are striking in sympathy and electrical supplies are shut off.

ROYAL AIR FORCE DISPLAY

London. The Royal Air Force display which the King and Queen will attend at Hendon on Saturday will present an unequalled pageant of military aviation in remarkable formation flight of 250 aircraft in set piece showing attack and defence. Considerable interest will be aroused by the presence of one civil aeroplane. This is the Albatross Monoplane with four Gipsy 12, five hundred horse power engines which is designed to cruise at more than 200 miles per hour across the north Atlantic with at least 1,000 lbs of mails on board and which represents land plane aspect of Britain's comprehensive experiments in trans-ocean commercial flying. Weighing with full load approximately 28,000 lbs the Albatross is notable for its novel construction. The spacious fuselage is large enough to accommodate 22 passengers in great comfort and is built in new material that may roughly be described as sandwich of extremely light balsa wood between layers of plywood. Another feature of technical interest is the method of cooling adopted for the engines which are completely housed in stream lined cowls and obtain cooling air through apertures in the leading edge of the main plane.

THE "LEIPZIG" INCIDENT.

London. The Foreign Secretary made the following statement at question time in the House of Commons yesterday. "At a meeting held yesterday afternoon further to consider incidents in which the German cruiser "Leipzig" was involved it was unfortunately found impossible to reach an agreement on the measures which should be adopted in this case. The main point on which there was difference of opinion was the question of making an immediate naval demonstration by the four powers for the purpose of showing the flags off the coast of Valencia. On my instructions His Majesty's Ambassador at Berlin saw Baron Von Neurath this morning when he was informed that the German Government regretted it had not been possible to reach an agreement and that they therefore felt obliged to withdraw their ships from the control system. Baron Von Neurath said this action was being taken with the specific intention of avoiding the possibility of aggravation of the situation.

FROM CONTROL SYSTEM.

London.—The Daily Telegraph commenting on the German and Italian decisions to withdraw from the control in Spanish waters, while remaining within the Non-Intervention Committee, says that the international tension is eased thereby, but if there had been a strict observance of non-intervention by the undertaking powers, patrol would have been unnecessary from the beginning. Adherence to it in future will make the gap in the ring around Spain less serious but if necessary, the ring can be reformed without German and Italian vessels. Italy's decision to join Germany in leaving the control system was announced in an early afternoon communique. Authoritative observers in Rome state that there will be no sensational gestures to follow this announcement. Meantime Italy feels hurt at the lack of moral comprehension shown by Britain and France regarding Bolshevik mission in Spain. A later Rome message states that it is probable that Italian vessels will remain in Spanish waters "for reasons of Mediterranean security!" Paris reports that France will continue to act with Britain in furthering peace acts but finds relief in the German declaration that there will be no retaliatory action against Valencia. Moscow press describes the Italo-German action as an application of blackmail, provocation and deception in regard to the alleged "Leipzig" incident, and that Britain's efforts to ensure peace only encourages Fascist states to make more impudent and shameless demands.

WAR NEWS.

Bilbao.—The Insurgents have occupied the greater part of the industrial area to the north-west of the city, with the control of iron mines, states the Daily Telegraph Correspondent. The western banks of the estuary are now under control, freeing the harbour, and sniping posts have been cleared by tank attacks. The advance on Santander is continuing but with curtailed aerial activity. Public services in Bilbao have been restored and ample food supplies are arriving. Activity continues on the outskirts of Madrid where dead and wounded have been removed under the flag of truce. All other sectors are quiet.

Brussels. Rioting broke out when 15,000 ex-servicemen and war-widows demonstrated against the Amnesty Bill favouring Belgians who supported Germans during the occupation periods. Clashes occurred with Gendarmes but peace was restored when King Leopold agreed to see a deputation of three and subsequently, the demonstrators dispersed.

THE "LEIPZIG" INCIDENT.

Baron Von Neurath added that the German Government would confine themselves to this action. I understand, further, that the German Government do not contemplate ceasing participation in the Non-Intervention Committee. The Italian Ambassador has since been to see me, when he informed me that his Government had also decided to withdraw their ships from the control scheme." In answer to supplementaries Mr. Eden agreed that the withdrawal of the Germans and Italians from the Naval Control left questions to be considered, but he insisted the important point was the assurance given to His Majesty's Ambassador, that the German Government would confine themselves to withdrawal from naval control following the failure of consulted procedure in the "Leipzig" case. He told Mr. Lloyd George that, as he understood it, Germany and Italy were withdrawing only from participation in naval control, and that the Non-Intervention agreement itself was unaffected.

DISCUSSIONS ON SPANISH SITUATION.

The Foreign Secretary told the House of Commons at question time that he had no material developments to report on the Spanish situation but in subsequent answers he made several points. Asked about the movement of German war-ships he said, "I would like to suggest to the House that reports on German movements eastward into the Mediterranean should be received with greatest reserve. Official information which has been received by the Admiralty does not confirm it." He also stated that he had been in touch with the International Board for Non-Intervention and understood that they had received no information whatever to confirm the report of the arrival of Italian troops in Malaga and other Spanish ports. He added that His Majesty's ships to whom the patrol duties in the Malaga area had been assigned, had made no report tending to show that any such development had occurred. Lord Crambourne also gave information on Spain. Recalling facilities which His Majesty's ships had provided for the evacuation of non-combatants on numerous occasions, he said he was informed that negotiations were in progress between the Spanish Government and the International Red Cross for the evacuation of a large number of women and children from Madrid.

THE MARRIAGE BILL.

The Marriage Bill amending the law of divorce reached the House of Lords yesterday, and the Archbishop of Canterbury intervened in the second reading debate to state his position. The existing law in the matter of divorce had proved to be unsatisfactory in its operation and had given rise to grave abuses, detrimental not only to marriage itself, but to public morality. The Bill contained some valuable remedies against this and for those reasons, although he hoped it might be remodelled in certain respects in committee stage, he thought it was entitled to careful consideration, and he could not honestly vote against its second reading. On the other hand, as representative officer of the Church, in his judgement divorce, certainly remarriage after divorce, was inconsistent with the principles laid down by Christ and accepted in its own laws and formularies by the Church. Therefore he could not take the responsibility of promoting legislation which in some of its principal proposals was inconsistent with those principles and that standard. Dr. Lang said he would take no part in division and advised others of like mind to follow the same course.

IMPROVED COMMUNICATION BETWEEN U.K. AND CONTINENT.

The successful laying of two new submarine cables across the North Sea, between Aldeburgh, Suffolk, and Domburg on the Dutch coast, provides substantial addition to facilities for telephonic communication between the United Kingdom and many parts of the Continent. The two cables, which are of graded coaxial type, are each about 85 nautical miles in length and although each contains only one insulated conductor they allow no fewer than 16 telephone conversations and a radio broadcast programme to be transmitted simultaneously.

THE ROYAL AIR FORCE DISPLAY.

The rehearsals for the Royal Air Force Display, which Their Majesty's will attend on Saturday, are attracting great public interest and in particular the training practices for the remarkable Coronation mass formation flight of 260 service aircraft which is visible over a large area of the counties to the north of London.

U.S.A. AND GERMAN ACTION IN SPANISH SITUATION.

London. According to the Daily Telegraph Correspondent President Roosevelt has played an active part in diplomatic moves to bring about relaxation of the tension created by the "Leipzig" incident and Italo-German withdrawal from the Spanish Control scheme. The United States Ambassador in Berlin received presidential instructions to give the fullest support to the British and French Ambassadors in their councils against hasty and incautious acts. According to New York messages political observers view with profound amazement Germany's recent action in the Spanish situation, and while generous tribute is paid to Mr. Eden for unremitting efforts to avoid any crisis, strong criticism is voiced at Germany's apparent insistence on interfering in the war which is no affair of hers. European Embassies and Washington are maintaining close cable contact with the situation but no official communications have been published. Berlin states that German warships will remain in Spanish waters to protect trade, while the Italian Royal Decree establishes new Mediterranean command under an Admiral, with its base at Tripoli "in view of absolute and urgent necessity."

HOUSE OF COMMONS

DEBATE ON FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

The Foreign Secretary, in a debate on foreign affairs initiated in the House of Commons yesterday by the Liberal leader Sir Archibald Sinclair, replied to questions on the situation in the far east where, Mr. Eden said, he thought it was true to say there were certain definite and encouraging signs of improvement. Conversations had been proceeding with representatives of the Japanese Government on the possibility of a better understanding and better ordering of Anglo-Japanese relations generally, and these conversations, so far as they had gone, encouraged hope that it might be possible at a very early date to begin examination of concrete proposals. "Mention of Anglo-Japanese conversations in the past had given rise in certain quarters that an Anglo-Japanese understanding may be effected at the expense of China and I take this opportunity of renewing once more the assurance I have already given on more than one occasion that the Government have no intention of doing anything of that kind. Our relations with the Chinese Government are excellent. What we hope for, and what we will work for is increase of friendship and mutual trust between all nations of the far east. We are convinced that an understanding with Japan would under certain conditions contribute to that end." Referring to the proposal for a Pacific pact of non-aggression Mr. Eden said that it was a matter which must be approached with some circumspection and it might be unjust to attempt any negotiations until we knew a little more clearly what were the views of the other Governments but they hoped shortly to make preliminary soundings among interested Governments after which they would be in a position to decide whether any definite proposals could be made with a reasonable chance of success. Mr. Eden then turned to Central Europe declaring, "We cannot, even if we would, disinterest ourselves in the course of events there - any more than we can disinterest ourselves in the course of events anywhere else on the world's surface - as conditions are to-day. Our interest in peace is universal. We realise that in trade and economic matters, other nations have closer interest than we in the Danube basin although we should like to see gradual removal of trade barriers in that area. Our interest in peace there and elsewhere must be unceasing." Mr. Eden repeated a statement, as to the use of British arms, made in his Leamington speech and subsequently on several occasions. He ended the statement with the words "Our arms may be used in bringing help to any victim of aggression where in our judgement it would be appropriate under the terms of the Covenant." I use the word may because there is no automatic obligation to take military action.

The remainder of the Foreign Secretary's speech, however, was devoted to Spain. After explaining the position regarding refugee ships he addressed himself to the Labour Party's demand for the termination of the Non-Intervention policy. The alternative, said Mr. Eden, was an unlimited competition in arms and men. After that would come infinite danger of a clash between other powers. He contended that the Labour Party, whose sympathy was with the Spanish Government's side in the Civil War, were mistaken in the idea that the lifting of non-intervention embargoes would benefit Valencia. While he admitted that the Government were not satisfied with the working of the Non-Intervention Agreement, he reminded the House that it had gone a long way to check assistance to either side from outside and declared the truth to be that given goodwill among nations there was no reason whatever why existing schemes should not be made to work satisfactorily. The British Government was in close consultation with the French Government on the problem of a future policy. It was all important to know German and Italian attitudes. Inquiries were being made and a meeting of the Non-Intervention Committee would be held shortly. A further effort must be made, and it has not been made easier by the events of the last few days. There was a gap in the naval control to fill. There was the question of volunteers. The Government regretted the failure to reach an agreement on the "Leipzig" incident. It was not for the want of trying, but it was impossible to join in a naval demonstration off Valencia in advance of an inquiry in view of the Spanish Government's denials and their offer of facilities for verifying the statements they had made. To have done so would have been virtually execution of judgement without investigation.

 London. Miss Marta Cunningham, founder of the "Not Forgotten" Association, died yesterday.

ADDITION TO EXCHANGE EQUALISATIONACCOUNT.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer announced that a resolution would be debated in the House of Commons on Monday authorising the addition of £200,000,000 to resources of the Exchange Equalisation account which is at present £350,000,000. Sir John Simon explained that the increase was considered necessary for the purpose of maintaining undertakings and objectives under tripartite monetary declaration and avoiding undesirable exchange fluctuations which might result from large movements of capital unless counteracted.

SUNKEN LUSITANIA.Proposal to Salvage Bullion.

Salvage operations in the former Cunard liner Lusitania, which was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine in 1915, with a loss of 1198 lives, are expected to begin this month. It is planned to break the ship up under water by explosives and sell the metal as scrap, and probably, it is stated, for the manufacture of armaments. Two obstacles have hitherto prevented the salvaging of the Lusitania, which in addition to its value as scrap metal, is believed to contain large quantities of gold and valuable jewelry said to total between £500,000 and £1,000,000. The first obstacle was ignorance of the position of the hull, the second the lack of suitable diving equipment.

The liner is believed to have been located by echo-sounder apparatus by Captain Henry B. Russell, of Glasgow at a point eleven miles from Kinsale Head, Ireland. The sounder recorded an object 780 feet long and 84 feet in height; these are the dimensions of the Lusitania.

Subsequently a diver, Mr. James Jarratt, descended to the vessel and stood on the deck, but was compelled by rough weather to return to the surface before he had positively identified the ship. He noticed, however, that the rivets were the same size as those in the Lusitania.

The great liner lies in more than 300 feet of water, and the ordinary diving dress is limited to a maximum depth of 180 feet. This obstacle was overcome by the invention by Mr. J.A. Peress of an all-metal diving suit cap, it is claimed, of working at a depth of over 1,300 feet. This suit has been tested in Loch Ness at depths of 400 feet, and in a pressure tank at a pressure of 600 lbs. per square inch, which corresponds to a depth of 1,320 feet. The suit represents a different method to that employed by the Italian salvage ship Artiglio.

THE ROYAL AIR FORCE DISPLAY.

The King and Queen on Saturday attended the Royal Air Force display at Hendon which was the eighteenth of a series, and a special Coronation display. A special character of the display was marked by the number of aircraft participating which represented something like one third of the country's first line strength, by the mass formation flight of 200 aeroplanes and by aerobatics exceeding in spectacular value even the most remarkable of thrills staged in the past at Hendon. The set piece showed a bombing attack on the dock where the ships had steam up in anticipation of the rising tide and the opening of the lock gates. There was a very large attendance of the public, and among other members of the Royal Family who were present were the Duke and Duchess of Kent who arrived by aeroplane.

MEETING OF CHAIRMAN'S
SUB-COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Chairman's Sub-Committee of the Non-Intervention Committee has been called for Tuesday morning when the first matter for consideration will be warship patrol duties around Spain and it may be assumed that British and French representatives will intimate the willingness of their Governments to fill with their own ships the gap left by the withdrawal of German and Italian warships from patrol duties. The question of the replacing of neutral observers on control ships will also be discussed. If time permits, the Committee will resume discussions of the volunteer question, and in particular the British offer to facilitate an early start of their withdrawal.

CIVIL WAR NEWS.

The Insurgents claim advance nine miles from Bilbao towards Santander while the Basques are busily fortifying Santander. Government airmen report that Insurgent concentrations are threatening the Madrid-Valencia road.

PROTECTION OF IRISH FISHING INDUSTRY.

Dublin. The Sunday Times Correspondent states that plans are being presented in the Dail, after the general election, for providing fast motor boats armed with machine guns and manned by local fishermen to stop the ravages by foreign trawlers in Irish waters. It is proposed that captured trawlers should be confiscated instead of the existing system of fines and confiscation of nets. Protection is deemed necessary to preserve the livelihood of hundreds of fisher-folk and the central marketing scheme.

ITALIAN PRAISE FOR MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S APPEAL.

Mr. Chamberlain's appeal for cool heads to avoid precipitating disaster was warmly praised in an article published in "Popolo d'Italia", believed to have been written by Signor Mussolini. The writer states that the crisis will be solved when General Franco, after crushing the Basques, moves full weight of forces against Madrid which will fall like Bilbao and adds that Fascist Italy has not remained neutral the victory will also be hers.

ANXIETY REGARDING INTERNATIONAL SITUATION.

According to the Sunday Times London is still anxious regarding the international situation fearing possible that the incident involving the German warship might cause retaliation against Valencia thereby aggravating the tension. It is believed that Germany and Italy will approve of the proposal that Britain and France should fill the gap in the control scheme resulting from their withdrawals.

SUNKEN LUSITANIA.

Glasgow. The owners of the research ship "Orphil" which located the "Lusitania" wreck two years ago announced that no salvage attempt is to be made in 1937 but that operations for the recovery of bullion and scrap metal will, it is anticipated, commence in 1938.

REPLY TO BRITISH QUERY.

London. The Valencia authorities have at last answered the query of the British Government regarding guarantees of safety of ships engaged in the sea control system. In their answer the Valencia authorities express surprise that four sea control powers should ask for guarantees of safety and not the entire Non-Intervention Committee. The reply then rejects the London proposals and finally protests against that passage in the British note in which reference is made to the guarantees required "from the two contending parties." In London political circles the answer is regarded as having only informatory value and point out that the contents long ago became purposeless since after the failure of the four power deliberations Germany and Italy have withdrawn their ships from sea control.

O B I T U A R Y.

Sheffield. Sir Charles Clegg, 87, The Football Association President since 1923, died yesterday.

"GRANT ME FOUR YEARS TIME" EXHIBITION

Berlin. Almost one and a half million persons visited the exhibition "Grant Me Four Years Time" which opened on the 30th of April and closed its doors on Sunday the 27th June. The purpose of the exhibition was to show the German people what National Socialist regime had accomplished since its advent to power on January the 30th, 1933. The above figure indicates that this exhibition was one of the most successful ever held in Berlin under Adolf Hitler. Even the "Germany" exhibition that ran simultaneously with the Olympic Games and which was held at the most favourable moment when Germany was visited by thousands of people from other countries desirous of seeing as much of Germany as possible in a short time was not so successful as its total number of visitors was but 1.3 millions. For its display altogether 278 special trains and over 1,000 special omnibuses brought visitors from all parts of the Reich. The catalogue of the exhibition was so much in demand that it had to be reprinted four times. For the first time on record a political achievement was successfully portrayed in pictures, diagrams, curves and statistics in a manner intelligible and interesting to the broad masses of people. In the cinema within the exhibition itself a continuous record of the Hitler regime achievements were shown.

THE STRIKE IN TRINIDAD.

Port Of Spain. Bus drivers and conductors have joined the strike and the Governor is discussing with the Executive Council the advisability of conferring with the oil strikers' representative, Butler. The Governor has been given wide powers and the police are surrounding a south Trinidad village where Butler is believed to be hiding. The Committee of three created mediate between the the employers and the workers.

NEWS IN BRIEF.HERR HITLER AND COLLECTIVE SECURITY.

Madrid. Aeroplanes are engaged in the Jarama River sector where General Franco's troops are attempting to cut the Valencia road. Government heavy tanks and infantry have so far repelled the attack.

Valencia. The authorities declare that the torpedoing of the "Cabopalos" was not done by an Insurgent submarine as the Government can account for all Spanish submarines except one manned by Socialists. The Defence Minister, Senor Prieto, stated that German and Italian submarines and other warships are assisting the Insurgents.

New York. Police officers left by air to bring back sculptor Robert Irwin who is detained in Chicago concerning the Easter murder of Veronica Gideon, her mother and Frank Byres.

Srinagar, Kashmir. One person was killed and several were injured when police fired on a riotous Moslem mob holding a banned procession. Seventy-three police were injured by stones. The procession leader was arrested and police and troops are guarding the disturbed areas.

Washington. The three Soviet airmen who flew from Moscow to the United States across the North Pole arrived by train from San Francisco accompanied by the Soviet Washington Ambassador. They are being received on Monday by President Roosevelt at the White House.

Hollywood. Louis B. Mayer, controlling the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer productions, is visiting England in August to launch a production programme of films of Hollywood calibre. Actors in four of the pictures already planned include Robert Taylor and Luis Rayner.

Warsaw. The Rumanian King Carol and Crown Prince Michael were enthusiastically received on a state visit and saw a military parade and airforce demonstrations by 300 planes. The Daily Telegraph states that it is hoped that staff talks will follow regarding the formation of a military barrier, from the Baltic to the Black Sea, against Communism.

Wuerzburg. The Daily Telegraph reports that Herr Hitler in his first speech since the "Leipzig" incident declared that Germany had finished with collective action and would take her future security in her own hands. Herr Hitler said that following the criticisms of the Almeria bombardment Germany agreed to leave such matters with institutions able to defend national interests by collective means. After the "Leipzig" incident Germany expected collective action protecting peace but even a modest demonstration was refused.

Having learned an unforgettable lesson Germany would now defend her own freedom, independence, honour and security being now able to protect herself.

If collective agreements had proved worthy they would have considered further steps but they were not going into danger a second time.

THE AMERICAN STEEL STRIKE

New York. Despite general confusion in the steel strike situation Lewis and the C.I.O. suffered a severe set-back and must adopt new tactics to prevent the discouragement of their supporters states the Daily Telegraph Correspondent. The "back to work" movement is gathering momentum.

A dispute has broken out between Labour Secretary, Miss Perkins, and the Ohio State Governor, Davey. Davey declares that the Secretary instructed him to hold the Republic Steel Corporation Chief, Farnell, and the Sheet and Tube Company President until they signed an agreement with the C.I.O. leader. Davey describes such action as dictatorial and beyond his rights. Miss Perkins while denying the statement admits suggesting that the state had power to subject the steel leaders to attend a conference which they had refused to join.

FOREIGN SECRETARY QUESTIONEDREGARDING SPANISH CONFLICT.

Several questions were addressed to the Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons yesterday with reference to the Spanish conflict. Mr. Eden said he was not in a position to make any statement regarding the attitude of the various Governments towards the principle of the scheme for the withdrawal of foreign nationals now serving in Spain which is also on the agenda for to-day's Non-Intervention Committee meeting. He understood that only four governments had so far communicated their observations on the matter to the Non-Intervention Committee. The British Government had informed the Committee that they were willing to agree in principle to accept a plan with any modifications which the Committee might adopt. When asked whether any plans were before the Committee for preventing the passage of foreign military aircraft to Spain Mr. Eden replied that this extremely complex problem had been under constant examination. No solution had yet been found but the Government were fully alive to its importance and would do everything in their power to secure a solution.

B I R T H.

We have been informed that Mrs. C.A.I. Fearon recently gave birth to a son and daughter at Barnes, London.

We extend out heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fearon.

Dear Sir,

I am sure that you will be very surprised to receive a letter from a gentleman living in Capetown.

My purpose in writing this letter is as follows. I am a very keen stamp collector, and have correspondents in many countries, but I have not a correspondent in the Falkland Islands.

For we stamp collectors the forthcoming Coronation is a very important event, and if I may take the liberty of asking you a special favour, I would be extremely grateful if you would send me stamps, particularly Coronation ones.

If you are not interested in stamp collecting kindly hand this letter to one of your friends who is interested because I will exchange stamps with him in the future.

Thanking you in anticipation,

I remain,

Yours truly,

W. ROOS.

MEETING OF NON-INTERVENTIONSUB-COMMITTEE

Proposals for the reconstituting of the naval observation scheme, under which the United Kingdom and French Governments have agreed to assume the responsibility for the operation of the scheme in respect of the whole of the coasts of Spain and have further agreed in principle to the appointment of neutral observers to be stationed on patrol ships, were submitted by the Chairman, Lord Plymouth, to the Non-Intervention Sub-Committee at the Foreign Office yesterday. Under the scheme the United Kingdom Government would be responsible for the naval observation of parts of the coast now in the hands of the Spanish Government, and the French and United Kingdom Governments would share the responsibility for the observation of those parts of the coast of Spain now in the hands of General Franco on a basis arranged between the two Governments. By far the greater part of the last named coast, would, said Lord Plymouth, inevitably be included in the French zone. A communique issued at the close of the meeting states that Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Sweden and the U.S.S.R. representatives welcomed the Anglo-French proposals on behalf of their Governments. The German and Italian representatives, while willing to transmit proposals to their respective Governments, pointed out their strong objection in principle against any proposal not based on necessary equilibrium so as to ensure absolute impartiality of the control. They further indicated that their respective Governments had decided to advise their nationals, at present employed as observer officers under the observation scheme to resign their appointments. At the conclusion of the discussion all the representatives undertook to refer the proposals to their Governments with a request for immediate instructions thereon. The plan for the withdrawal from Spain of non-Spanish nationals engaged in the conflict was next considered, and Lord Plymouth said that his Government regarded the question as being of great urgency and importance. The French representative said that in order to make a start with the general process of withdrawal his Government desired to suggest that arrangements be made for the immediate withdrawal of all non-Spanish prisoners of war or wounded. It was agreed that further consideration should be given both to the question of the naval observation scheme and the withdrawal of volunteers at the next meeting which was fixed for the morning of July 2nd.

It is strongly hoped in London that there will be no undue delay in reaching a decision on the part of the governments to whom the scheme has been submitted. It is felt that the issue cannot for long remain open and it is expected that by Friday when the Committee reassemble it will become clear whether the Anglo-French proposal is acceptable to the Non-Intervention powers. The scheme is an onerous one so far as the British Government is concerned not only on account of the heavy expense involved in the extension of the area to be under British observation but also owing to the strain on the men and ships engaged in the work. It is thought that the offer to agree in principle to the appointment of neutral observers on patrol ships should give sufficient guarantees of strict impartiality.
