Lighting of Government Printing Office.

MINUTES.

Col. Engineer, (1.)

Last year a Kitson Lamp was borrowed from the P.W.D. for use in the Government Printing Office when working Overtime.

As the present lamps in the Printing Office give a very poor light I will be obliged if you will be so kind as to say whether one of the Kitson Lamp's can be spared as last year.

Hon. Colonial Secretary.

As the Kitson lamp appears to be urgently required in the Printing Office, one from the Town Hall can be spared but will have to be returned should the Hall be required. I believe there are in the Printing Office three or four incandescent lamps requiring new mantles. Would it not be advisable to procure some from England as soon as possible?

H.E.,

The Govt. Printer considers that the present lamps in the Printing Office give enough light to work on some jobs such as running off on the machine, but states that it is very trying on ones to have to set type by their light.

I quite understand that. An indent should be sent for new mantles at once, and a lamp borrowed from the Town Hall, in the meantime, when necessary.
